Nation Mourns Silver-Tongued Orator Sen. Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everett McKinley Dirksen, he of the tangled mane, the rumbling bass voice which could soothe or taunt or plead, is dead at 73, and the Senate is pausing in tribute to the man who for a decade was leader of its Republican minority.

EVERETT DIRKSEN

At the peak of his power, during two Democratic administrations, the senator from Illinois fashioned that minority, and his own talent for oratory, drama and political maneuver, into a force which made him one of Washington's most influential figures.

Dirksen, ever the showman, was perhaps the best known of senators.

"He was an old pro," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, announcing the Senate would forgo business today to do honor to Dirksen, who died Sunday at Walter Reed Army Hospital, five days after an operation for lung cancer.

Medical announcements had indicated he was progressing toward recovery. But on Sunday, he suffered a cardiac and respiratory arrest. Two hours of efforts at resuscitation proved futile, and Dirksen died at 4:52 p.m. EDT.

President Nixon called Dirksen a giant in the history of Congress, a great American, a warm personal friend. "To politics and government he brought a dedication matched by few and a style and eloquence matched by no political leader. 'He had his greatest moments in our time,' the President said, as the leader of the loyal opposition."

The White House said Nixon expects to attend the funeral. Mansfield said he hopes most of the Senate will, too.

The funeral is to be held at the National Presbyterian Church, and Dirksen's body is to lie in state for one day at the rotunda of the Capitol. He will be buried in his hometown, Pekin, Ill.

Final, detailed arrangements were to be made today.

Members of Congress, officials and leaders of both parties joined in praising Dirksen and in expressing sympathy to his widow, his daughter, Danice, and his son-in-law, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

Mansfield said as Democratic leader, he had enjoyed a perfect relationship with his Republican counterpart. "His word was good," Mansfield said. "Everything was on the table."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson—who often found Dirksen a valued ally on the Senate floor—sent a private message of condolence to Mrs. Dirksen.

Dirksen's death left two vital vacancies in the Senate: that of Republican floor leader, and that of senator from Illinois.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, 68, is likely to succeed to the minority leadership on an interim basis. The decision will be made at a conference of 42 remaining Republican senators. They will, presumably, be joined by a 43rd Republican when GOP Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois appoints a new senator.

Scott, who had been deputy minority leader or whip, was designated acting Republican leader after Dirksen was hospitalized.

Dirksen, who was elected to his fourth Senate term less than a year ago, had suffered repeated illnesses, frequently requiring hospitalization. He blamed recurrent stomach and intestinal disturbances on tension. He also suffered from a bleeding ulcer, a pinched nerve in his back, and emphysema, a lung ailment.

He constantly puffed cigarettes, tried to quit but never succeeded, often borrowed a smoke from a colleague, an aide or a reporter.

It was when Johnson and the late John F. Kennedy were in the White House that Dirksen's power was at its pinnacle. Democratic presidents came to him seeking the votes they needed for key proposals.

Republican Nixon often turned to other Republicans—although Dirksen retained ample political muscle. Critics—among them some of the Senate's younger, more liberal Republicans—accused Dirksen of obstructionism, and there was guarded corridor talk of an eventual attempt to displace the leader.

Six years ago, almost to the day, Dirksen was on the Senate floor, arguing the case for Kennedy in the struggle over ratification of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

He had not, Dirksen said, lost faith in his President. "Take one little step with some hope and some faith," he urged in the familiar, organ-tone voice. The Senate did.

He was a key man in the passage of the sweeping Civil Rights Act of 1964, and again when Congress dealt with voting rights a year later. Those were the days when the Democratic White House sent emissaries to his ornate office off the Senate floor, when the term of crucial legislation were drafted beneath the crystal chandelier there.

All the while, however, his Republican oratory was undampened. As leading man of "The Ev and Charlie Show," the weekly news conferences with House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck, he glibed at Democratic social programs.

Later, he said the Johnson administration was pursuing social programs with "the pop-eyed ardor of a Harpo Marx chasing blonds."

During the Nixon administration, Dirksen at times lined up against a GOP President. He blocked a widely publicized appointment, agreed with Senate Democrats to a six month extension of the income surtax when the White House wanted a full year.

Dirksen came out of Pekin, Ill., to the House of Representatives, winning his first term in 1932 and serving there for 16 years. He retired with eye trouble, so serious that specialists once advocated removal of an eye. But the eye improved. And in 1950 Dirksen ran for the Senate and, in an upset, defeated Scott Lucas, the Democratic leader.

In 1952, he was a major supporter of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for presidential nomination, and it produced a famous moment of political drama. As Taft forces battled those favoring Dwight D. Eisenhower for the nomination, Dirksen waved his finger at New York's Thom-

Power Struggle For Dirksen's Post Predicted

Expect Scott To Continue For A While

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania stands as the likeliest immediate successor to GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, but a power struggle over the next 16 months may determine the ultimate leader of Senate Republicans.

But Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, a conservative who serves as chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, made clear last week he expected a share of leadership duties during Dirksen's illness.

Allott, 62, could become a rival to Scott for the top job, or a candidate for whip.

But whoever moves into the minority leader's front-row desk and inherits his spacious, chandelied office just off the Senate floor is unlikely to have the power and force Dirksen had accumulated in his 10-year leadership.

For one thing, the position is less important now with a Republican in the White House than it was during Democratic administrations.

Unlike the Democrats, whose leader Mike Mansfield is also head of the party's policy committee and conference, the Republicans have a more fragmented set-up.

Illinois GOP Eyes Vacancy In Senate

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois House Speaker Ralph T. Smith and Atty. Gen. William J. Scott are receiving prominent mention as possible successors to the Senate seat of the late Everett M. Dirksen.

Sources close to Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, who will make the appointment, labeled Smith as the top prospect at the moment but insisted the field is wide open.

Some other Republicans named in speculation about Dirksen's successor include John Henry Altior of Peoria; Congressmen John Anderson of Rockford; and Donald Rumsfeld, a former congressman and now director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Altior was defeated by Ogilvie in the 1968 GOP gubernatorial primary.

Smith, of Alto, a two-time speaker and long-time legislator, played a key role in Ogilvie's election by serving as his downstate campaign manager.

If tradition is followed, the Dirksen seat will go to a downstate resident since Sen. Charles H. Percy is from the Chicago area.

Armstrong Fete Over; Memories Remain Strong

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong, this community's biggest hero was gone today but the memories of his homecoming will be the talk of the town for quite some time.

Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon, returned Sunday to the Houston Space Center following a weekend homecoming celebration which attracted thousands of persons.

Comedian Bob Hope joined Gov. James A. Rhodes to head Saturday's parade leading up to a gala reception at the county fairgrounds.

Armstrong, met with old friends and relatives before joining the parade, was watched by 55,000 visitors who lined much of a 2½-mile route.

The 39-year-old Apollo 11 commander earlier spoke at Wapakoneta High School to more than 2,000 cheering teenagers, shook hands with old classmates and told newsmen he planned to continue in the space program.

While on the moon, he said, "I could look up and see the planet earth and it was very bright and beautiful and very small."

"I was amazed that it was the only beautiful thing to be seen," he added. "It is in fact the only place that we as a human race have right now to live on. It is a beautiful spot and certainly deserves being saved."

The formal homecoming concluded with Armstrong and his father, Stephen K. Armstrong, joining a boys choir in singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Later Armstrong returned to the home of his parents and met privately with relatives.

When he left for Houston he took with him a station wagon jammed with gifts.

THE Red Cross Bloodmobile visits Circleville Thursday.

Jack Mader, county blood program chairman, said today that the county is just barely maintaining 90 per cent of its quota, the minimum needed to assure full coverage.

"Our quota is 750 pints for the year and we have only collected 686 pints, 64 short of the quota," Mader said. "To get up to our quota we need to have at least 150 donors Thursday."

FOUR Pickaway County Deputy Sheriffs were among the 250 at Wapakoneta Saturday to help control crowds for Neil Armstrong, the Moon walking astronaut.

Wapak is Armstrong's home town. Deputies at the home coming event for the astronaut were Bill Dountz, Nelson Embury, Gary George and Cecil Hatfield.

They were stationed at the first main intersection along the parade route.

THE Circleville Police Department will be featured in the next issue of the Ohio Police Chief's magazine, a quarterly publication. Judge William Ammer will contribute an article to the magazine.

Chief of Police Robert Temple said that Sgt. Wesley Barton's program on narcotics will be featured, along with a story of the city.

Russians Get Licks In Hanoi

Chinese Absent As Kosygin Comes

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and North Vietnamese leaders conferred in Hanoi Sunday on the Vietnam war after the Soviet leader placed a wreath at the bier of Ho Chi Minh.

Noticeably absent from the talks were Communist China's top leaders who are competing with the men in the Kremlin for influence with Hanoi. Premier Chou En-lai and a Chinese delegation paid their respects to Ho Thursday then went home before Kosygin arrived.

Details of Kosygin's talks with Ho's political heirs were not disclosed, but the Russian presumably learned of future Hanoi policy toward the Vietnam war and the Paris peace talks. Tass said they discussed "steps to further develop fraternal friendship and close cooperation" between the North Vietnamese and Soviet governments and Communist parties.

The Kremlin has provided an estimated $1 billion a year in aid to Hanoi and has favored the Paris peace talks. Red China has disapproved of the talks.

The mourning crowd continued to grow today, and delegations from 11 more countries arrived in Hanoi Sunday, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency reported.

Queues continued to form at newsstands for papers and portraits of Ho, who died Wednesday. Florists sold wreaths as fast as they could make them, VNA said.

The dead president is to be given a state funeral Wednesday.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, was among those flying to Hanoi today for the funeral.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal charges of water pollution against four Ohio steel firms and the city of Toledo were "inappropriate, inconsiderate and poorly advised," according to State Health Director Dr. Emmett W. Arnold.

Arnold, who also is chairman of the Ohio Water Pollution Board, said the action by the Secretary of the Interior was taken without any preliminary consultation with Ohio officials.

"The facts are that these industries have been proceeding with extensive construction programs to eliminate pollution," Arnold said.

Trustees of the Pickaway Community Fund have set a goal of $57,500 for the 1969 campaign to benefit nine local participating agencies.

Tom Elsea, campaign chairman, pointed out the goal is the largest ever established and a five per cent increase over last year's.

Participating agencies include the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Well Child Clinic, YMCA, Salvation Army, Mental Health Assn., Family Planning Clinic and the Prenatal Clinic.

Elsea noted that the fund raising campaign expenses are held to a minimum by conducting one single fund collection for all nine agencies and by using volunteer help.

KEY chairman positions for this year's effort were listed today and they are:

Tom Elsea, general chairman; Bob Liggett, assistant general chairman; Jim Stallings, training chairman; Don Stage, assistant training chairman; Bill Davis, publicity chairman; Chie Shuttleworth, assistant publicity chairman;

Caroline Edstrom, materials and headquarters; Gary Grooms, treasurer; Don Flieri, secretary; Bill Sprout, industry chairman; George Schleck, industry chairman; Roger Bennington, special groups chairman; Howard Bobo, business chairman; Harold Hewitt, advanced gifts chairman;

Barbara Wolford, city north chairman; JoAnn Baughman, city south chairman; JoAnn Wagner, city south assistant chairman; Jerry Wolford, county east chairman; Howard Judd, county west chairman.

The 1969 effort will begin Sept. 22 and end Oct. 11.

Miccousukee Indians Fight Against Antipoverty Program

FROG CITY STATION, Fla. (AP) — The Miccousukee Indians, technically at war with the U.S. government for the last 120 years, are still fighting a rear guard action against the white man's progress.

But the reluctant Indians, whose life centers around the lush Everglades swamp, are giving ground little by little before federal antipoverty programs.

"People just don't clamor for benefits and services out here," said Dr. John Rehbein, a retired physician hired by the Miccousukee tribal council to direct a community action program.

"We have to really work to convince them that these things are good for them," he said. "The vast majority would like to go back to the old way."

And he added: "Frankly, the old way is better than anything we have to offer."

But the white man is crowding the Miccousukee, even in his desolate Everglades retreat, and he is being forced to change his ways.

A huge jetport is being built in the swamps a few miles west of the encampments on the Tamiami trail—U.S. Highway 41—where most of the 450 Miccousukees live.

Most bitterly oppose the jetport, fearing it will destroy ancient hunting grounds.

The Miccousukees, who fled into the swamps after warring with the U.S. government in the 1840's and have yet to sign a peace treaty, also are frustrated by the regulations of a flood control district.

Rapidly growing Miami encroaches from the east.

The Miccousukees decline to live on reservations and their older children have trouble adjusting to the high schools many attend in the Miami area, said Rehbein.

But progress is being made.

Allies Decide They'll Match Red Slowdown

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced today that allied military operations would be scaled to match the enemy's during the Viet Cong's three-day cease-fire in mourning for Ho Chi Minh.

The joint South Vietnamese-American communique tacitly accepted the three-day truce although it declared: "It is not our intention to talk about a cease-fire at this time."

The communique confirmed earlier reports that the allied forces were in a "defensive posture" but patrols were continuing to intercept any enemy attempt to build up troops and firepower closer to allied bases.

The scale of our military operations in the past has been influenced by the nature of enemy military operations. During this period the scope of our military operations will likewise be influenced by the nature of enemy military operations.

The Communist announcement of a cease-fire must be viewed in the light of the savage rocket attacks against civilians in Da Nang, and other aggressive actions which have followed the announcement. It must also be viewed in the light of the known history of past Communist violations of cease-fires which they themselves had proposed. Consequently it is not our intention to talk about cease-fires at this time."

Iraq Kills 3 As Spies

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Iraq executed three men as spies for the United States and Israel at dawn today.

Baghdad Radio said two civilians died on the gallows and one soldier was shot. Two were Moslems and the third, Iskander Youssef Khoudra Karam, may have been a Pakistani or Iranian.

The other two were identified as Anis Elmaz Abbas and Pvt. Rada Haidar.

A total of 54 persons have been executed in Iraq as spies this year. They included 11 Jews.

The radio said those executed today were sentenced to death by Iraq's revolutionary court in a trial held behind closed doors. They were convicted of espionage for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and Israel, the broadcast said, but it gave no details.

Probers Eye Loss Of Millions On U.S. Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has dispatched an investigator to Florida to examine the causes of a record multimillion-dollar loss on a government loan intended to create jobs in a poverty area.

"We're checking it out," said Jack Beddow, chief counsel of the Economic Development Administration, an arm of the Commerce Department. "I sent a lawyer down to Florida to look at the records."

Over a six-year period, the government invested a total of $5.4 million in Coastal Products Inc., which got the aid to build and operate a wood products plant at Blountstown, in Florida's Panhandle.

The factory, to provide 150 jobs, was in operation less than two years. When Coastal Products filed for bankruptcy the government foreclosed, then sold the idle plant this summer to another firm for $3.1 million.

The $2.3 million loss, according to a survey of loan-granting agencies, is the largest ever on a federal loan to private enterprise in the United States.

The EDA is a successor to the Area Redevelopment Administration, established in the early years of the Kennedy administration to spur economic development in rural areas.

The initial Coastal Products aid was a $2.8 million ARA loan arranged with the help of Rep. Don Fuqua, D-Fla., whose district includes Blountstown.

Fuqua said he pressed for government approval of the Coastal Products loan because some of his constituents had invested in the plant. The congressman himself had purchased $1,000 stock in an industrial development corporation which joined the government in financing the factory.

"Looking back," Fuqua said in an interview, "I would have checked into it more than I did. Hindsight's 20-20."

At the Commerce Department, a similar view is expressed. "In hindsight, we should have done some things differently," one official said.

Coastal Products was in financial trouble almost from the start. It quickly ran into a working capital squeeze, had difficulty finding trained employees and bought expensive machinery found to be inadequate.

When the firm fell behind on its interest payments on the first loan, the government responded by pouring in more mon-

Pickaway Community Fund Trustees Set Record Goal

LARGEST EVER — Jim Stallings (left) points to the highest goal ever set by the Pickaway County Community Fund trustees. Stallings is the training chairman of the drive this year. Other fund officials in the photo are Tom Elsea, campaign chairman; Dr. Robert Liggett, assistant general chairman; and Bill Davis, publicity chairman.

Trustees of the Pickaway County Community Fund have set a goal of $57,500 for the 1969 campaign to benefit nine local participating agencies.

Tom Elsea, campaign chairman, pointed out the goal is the largest ever established and a five per cent increase over last year's.

Participating agencies include the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Well Child Clinic, YMCA, Salvation Army, Mental Health Assn., Family Planning Clinic and the Prenatal Clinic.

Elsea noted that the fund raising campaign expenses are held to a minimum by conducting one single fund collection for all nine agencies and by using volunteer help.

KEY chairman positions for this year's effort were listed today and they are:

Tom Elsea, general chairman; Bob Liggett, assistant general chairman; Jim Stallings, training chairman; Don Stage, assistant training chairman; Bill Davis, publicity chairman; Chic Shuttleworth, assistant publicity chairman; Caroline Edstrom, materials and headquarters; Gary Grooms, treasurer; Don Flieri, secretary; Bill Sprout, industry chairman; George Schueck, industry chairman; Roger Bennington, special groups chairman; Howard Bobo, business chairman; Harold Hewitt, advanced gifts chairman; Barbara Wolford, city north chairman; JoAnn Baughman, city south chairman; JoAnn Wagner, city south assistant chairman; Jerry Wolford, county east chairman; Howard Judd, county west chairman.

The 1969 effort will begin Sept. 22 and end Oct. 11.

Miccousukee Indians Fight Against Antipoverty Program

FROG CITY STATION, Fla. (AP) — The Miccousukee Indians, technically at war with the U.S. government for the last 120 years, are still fighting a rear guard action against the white man's progress.

But the reluctant Indians, whose life centers around the lush Everglades swamp, are giving ground little by little before federal antipoverty programs.

"People just don't clamor for benefits and services out here," said Dr. John Rehbein, a retired physician hired by the Miccousukee tribal council to direct a community action program. "We have to really work to convince them that these things are good for them," he said. "The vast majority would like to go back to the old way."

And he added: "Frankly, the old way is better than anything we have to offer."

But the white man is crowding the Miccousukee, even in his desolate Everglades retreat, and he is being forced to change his ways.

A huge jetport is being built in the swamps a few miles west of the encampments on the Tamiami trail—U.S. Highway 41—where most of the 450 Miccousukees live.

Most bitterly oppose the jetport, fearing it will destroy ancient hunting grounds.

The Miccousukees, who fled into the swamps after warring with the U.S. government in the 1840's and have yet to sign a peace treaty, also are frustrated by the regulations of a flood control district.

Rapidly growing Miami encroaches on the east.

The Miccousukees decline to live on reservations and their older children have trouble adjusting to the high schools many attend in the Miami area, said Rehbein.

But progress is being made.

Man Burns To Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Firemen were trying to find the cause of a fire that whipped through the home of William Ryan, 53, father of seven, who was burned to death Sunday.

When the fire fell behind on its interest payments on the first loan, the government responded by pouring in more money.

Allies Decide They'll Match Red Slowdown

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced today that allied military operations would be scaled to match the enemy's during the Viet Cong's three-day cease-fire in mourning for Ho Chi Minh.

The joint South Vietnamese-American communique tacitly accepted the three-day truce although it declared: "It is not our intention to talk about a cease-fire at this time."

The communique confirmed earlier reports that the allied forces were in a "defensive posture but patrols were continuing to intercept any enemy attempt to build up troops and firepower closer to allied bases."

The joint communique said: "The scale of our military operations in the past has been influenced by the nature of enemy military operations. During this period the scope of our military operations will likewise be influenced by the nature of enemy military operations."

The Communist announcement of a cease-fire must be viewed in the light of the savage rocket attacks against civilians in Da Nang, and other aggressive actions which have followed the announcement. It must also be viewed in the light of the known history of past Communist violations of cease-fires which they themselves had proposed. Consequently it is not our intention to talk about cease-fires at this time.

Iraq Kills 3 As Spies

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Iraq executed three men as spies for the United States and Israel at dawn today.

Baghdad Radio said two civilians died on the gallows and one soldier was shot. Two were Moslems and the third, Iskander Youssef Khoudra Karam, may have been a Pakistani or Iranian.

The other two were identified as Anis Elmaz Abbas and Pvt. Reda Haidar.

A total of 54 persons have been executed in Iraq as spies this year. They included 11 Jews.

The radio said those executed today were sentenced to death by Iraq's revolutionary court in a trial held behind closed doors. They were convicted of espionage for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and Israel, the broadcast said, but it gave no details.

City Employees Draw Police Attention

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Two city employees installing an air conditioner near the county jail were suddenly surrounded by heavily armed policemen.

A county jail matron had noticed the two working on the third floor roof of the safety building, just under the fifth-floor jail section, and reported what appeared to be a jail break in progress.

New Outbreak Threatens In Irish Religious War

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A new explosion of violence threatened in Belfast today, and British troops moved into the center of the city after a young Protestant was killed during an apparent gasoline bomb attack on a Catholic home.

Army officials said the man was killed by unknown gunmen firing from a car. A companion was wounded and taken to a hospital. Police said windows of the house were broken and three unexploded gasoline bombs lay near the dead man's body.

Neighbors identified him as Jack Todd, 23, a member of a Protestant "peace patrol." Several of these groups have been patrolling Belfast since last month's riots.

An angry Protestant crowd gathered after the shooting and army patrols rushed to the scene, but Joseph McKeague, chairman of the Shankill Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, persuaded the crowd to disperse.

The army said it was leaving the investigation to the Royal Ulster Constabulary which posted men armed with automatic weapons at each end of the street. The police said they were treating the case as murder at this stage.

The shooting took place in a district in west Belfast where both Protestants and Roman Catholics live. The area has been one of the flashpoints in recent riots and today some Catholics were hurriedly moving their furniture and going to refugee centers or exclusively Catholic areas.

As another week of tension and economic strain began in Northern Ireland, there were more barricades on the streets.

For the first time in the capital, British troops fired tear gas cartridges Sunday at a Protestant crowd of about 3,000 that threatened to invade a Catholic district.

The jeering crowd ignored demands to move back behind their barricades but scattered when the gas went off.

Bishop Pike's Body Found On Ledge Of Deep Canyon

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dr. James A. Pike, who lost his battle with the Judean desert which he had hoped would yield a fuller meaning of Christianity for him, "did not fear death and now he is at peace."

The words came from his 51-year-old third wife Diane after the body of the former Episcopal bishop of California was recovered from a ledge of a deep canyon Sunday. The spot was two miles from where she had left him to go for aid last Monday night.

"There was no more appropriate place for Jim to die, if he had to die," said Mrs. Pike. She told newsmen her 56-year-old husband remarked before they set out on the trip: "If I die here, I will be happy and at peace."

The Pikes came to the Holy Land to do research for a book on the life of Christ.

"And now Jim has died in the place where Jesus found consolation," she said. "The book must be finished. My brother and I will do it. It will be a memorial to Jim."

Mrs. Pike said she would remain in Israel for a few more days and would make funeral arrangements after she talked with her husband's relatives in the United States.

Search parties of Israeli police, Bedouin trackers and army volunteers spent six days combing the wasteland where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found 20 years ago.

Police Inspector Salman Abu Yaman said Pike apparently was trying to climb out of the canyon and fell about 80 feet to the ledge.

An Israeli pathologist said Pike apparently died instantly from the fall and had been dead two to five days.

Pike's footprints led from two pools of fresh water a few hundred yards from the spot where he began his fatal attempt to climb out of the canyon.

Last Saturday, Pike's undergarments were found not far from where the couple abandoned their car Monday when it became stuck in a dirt track about five miles from the Dead Sea.

Power Struggle

The choice will be made by the 42 Republican senators—plus Dirksen's successor if he is appointed by then—at a party conference. But Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the conference chairman, declined to say how soon this might take place.

When Scott defeated Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska, a close ally of Dirksen, in what was primarily a liberal-conservative fight for the whip's job, most of the younger Senate Republicans supported Scott.

While they might back the 68-year-old Pennsylvanian for the leadership now, they were likely to leave their options open for the start of the next Congress in January 1971.

Final Rites For Dirksen Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen will lie in state in the rotunda of the Capitol for 24 hours beginning at noon EDT Tuesday.

Sen. Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, the acting Republican leader, said the Dirksen funeral is planned at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the National Presbyterian Church here.

He said Dirksen's body then will be taken to Pekin, Ill., for burial Thursday.

The body of the Senate GOP leader, who died Sunday, is expected to be flown to Pekin, Dirksen's birthplace.

Scott said the senators will convene early Tuesday and go in a group to the rotunda where a brief service will be conducted by the Rev. L. R. Elson, the Senate chaplain.

President Nixon is expected to be present for that service.

Later, the public will be admitted, to pay final respects.

Scott said there will be a final, brief graveside service in Pekin Thursday.

New Shoes Discarded By State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A shipment of never worn shoes, apparently wanted by no state agency, were determined to be unusable and were thrown away.

The Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction said the shoes were discarded at the Franklin County landfill.

Clem Davis, business manager for the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said he was told by the Department of Finance that 18 pairs of shoes were considered unusable and finance department spokesman said as many as 100 pairs of shoes may have been thrown out.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said that according to early reports, "the level of enemy-initiated actions is relatively low."

He said no shelling of American bases had been reported and there had been only a handful of "insignificant incidents."

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a dozen enemy attacks in which 10 civilians and three soldiers were killed and 36 persons wounded, including 18 civilians.

In one attack, the Viet Cong detonated a land mine electrically under a bus 35 miles south of Da Nang, killing 10 civilians and wounding 15. This happened nearly 11 hours after the Viet Cong cease-fire was to start.

Viet Cong troops also killed 2 American infantrymen and wounded five others in an ambush 37 miles southeast of Da Nang.

South Vietnamese military officials reported one minor ground attack and four mortar and rocket attacks on towns and outposts before dawn. American forces opened fire on two moving enemy groups about 25 miles northwest of Saigon.

3 Persons Die In Drownings Over Weekend

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — Two young Cleveland residents drowned in separate boating mishaps at Midway Lake south of here Sunday, Ashtabula County sheriff's deputies said.

A six-year-old Willowick girl drowned in a third Ashtabula County accident Sunday after she fell from a swing into the Grand River at Harperfield, deputies said.

Donald E. Straupfer, 21, drowned after he fell into Midway Lake from a rented rowboat, and Nathaniel Fowler, about 13, drowned after another rowboat capsized on the lake Sunday evening.

Kellie Peryman, 6, fell some 14 feet from a swing into the Grand River late Sunday afternoon. A 12-year-old playmate pulled her from the river, but resuscitation attempts were unsuccessful, deputies said.

Militants Free U.S. Ambassador

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to Brazil, C. Burke Elbrick, returned to his residence Sunday night with a cut on his head, freed by his kidnapers after 15 political prisoners reached Mexico.

Brazilian security officials began a widespread hunt for Elbrick's abductors. They searched several houses in the area where he was set free. Police sources said at least a dozen persons were arrested.

The military junta that took over a week ago when President Arthur da Costa e Silva suffered a stroke alerted military and law enforcement agencies to be on guard against a broad-based campaign of violence which the two terrorist groups that kidnaped Elbrick promised to unleash.

There was speculation that the junta would issue a decree making death the punishment for terrorism.

The 61-year-old career diplomat came through the ordeal in good shape although he had a gash on the right side of his head caused by a gun but when he scuffled with his kidnapers. The injury was not serious.

"To coin the understatement of the year, I'm glad to be back," Elbrick said. "I'm glad the kidnapers lived up to their word and let me go." He added he was "grateful to the Brazilian government for taking the action necessary to bring about my liberation."

His wife Elvira was one of the first persons to greet him after he drove up to the heavily guarded embassy residence in a taxi. The couple spent a few moments alone during which President Nixon telephoned from California.

A Voice of America correspondent who was allowed to tape a brief statement by Elbrick told his listeners the ambassador looked "exhausted." An embassy statement said he was "in good physical health and in good spirits."

The Brazilian military plane carrying the 15 prisoners whose release was demanded by Elbrick's kidnapers arrived in

Ford spoke on the ABC program "Issues and Answers." An interviewer said some Democrats are saying the administration is trying to favor the rich rather than the middle income earner.

"A totally unfounded charge," Ford said. "President Nixon was the first president since the initiation of the income tax to really recommend to Congress basic tax reform."

Oil Tanker Runs Into Heavy Ice

RESOLUTE BAY, N.W.T. (AP) — The U.S. oil tanker Manhattan ran into heavy ice for the first time Sunday as it entered Viscount Melville Sound on its voyage to prove that the Northwest Passage can be used year-round by tankers to bring oil from Alaska to the eastern United States.

As they steamed toward Winter Harbor, the Manhattan and its two support icebreakers found themselves in ice that covered nine-tenths of the water surface.

When the ship reaches Winter Harbor, Capt. Roger Steward and other officials and scientists aboard Humble Oil's Arctic expedition will decide whether to head through the narrow Prince of Wales Strait or to continue along the top of Banks Island through Melville Strait.

The plan is for the tanker to take the route that offers the worst ice conditions.

Eleven members of the Canadian Parliament returned to Ottawa Sunday night after a visit to the Manhattan in an attempt to bolster Canadian claims that the ship is sailing in Canadian rather than international waters.

One said he considered it a "discourtesy" that the ship was violating tradition by not flying a Canadian flag. But Humble's project manager, Stanley Haas, disagreed. He said it was "standard practice not to fly any flag in international waters."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Interstate Commerce Commission members are to stop accepting free hotel rooms and transportation from trucking and railroad groups, says the agency's chairman.

Virginia Mae Brown has issued a memorandum directing all the ICC officials to pay for all their expenses themselves, it was learned Sunday.

An examination of travel vouchers for the commissioners disclosed some have been traveling for years at the expense of some lawyers who practice before the regulatory board.

Commissioners deny the practice had influenced their thinking, decisions, or constituted a conflict of interest.

Questions over the practice were raised after consumer advocate Ralph Nader and a group of young lawyers working with him for the summer pried into the files of the ICCY and other government agencies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce says, "If businessmen ignore these recent pleas by government for cooperation and counsel, it will be a grievous error."

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, also publisher of the Tulsa Tribune, said in remarks prepared for a Washington speech today "cussing the government is fun, but we see on every hand areas where cooperation makes a lot of sense."

"There has recently been an increased warmth on the part of the great government bureaus toward the idea of enlisting groups of citizens, and particularly members of the business community, in joint efforts toward solving problems."

Jones cited government-business cooperation in such areas as training the unemployed, improving vocational program, and the effort to devise new building techniques for low cost housing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Republican leader says he backs the House-passed tax reform bill, but he has stopped short of criticizing Nixon administration proposals which would alter the measure considerably.

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan said, "I basically support the House bill, and I hope that the final version will be approximately what the House passed."

While implying his opposition to some administration ideas Ford said, "on balance I think the administration... has done a good job in trying to update and reform our basic tax legislation."

Ohio Solons To Return

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 108th General Assembly convenes again Thursday for a one-day session to determine what bills to keep alive until it meets again, possibly in January.

Fixing the exact meeting day for next year's session will be one of the key matters to be taken up by legislators. They also will make appointments to fill vacancies on several committees.

An emergency measure for immediate distribution of local government money allocated in the administration's education-tax bill will go for a vote in both houses.

The Legislative Office Building Committee will meet Wednesday to select a site for a new state office building and the Legislative Service Commission will meet Friday to name new officers.

The commission also will consider requests or new reports. It is the research arm of the legislature and maintains a full-time staff for non-partisan surveys.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated on a fairly wide front in moderate trading early this afternoon as the downward shift carried it sharply lower last week continued.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.01 at 813.49.

Declines led advances by better than 500 issues.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 1.6 at 286.6, with industrials off 2.6, rails off .9, and utilities off .5.

The Pikes came to the Holy Land to do research for a book on the life of Christ.

"And now Jim has died in the place where Jesus found consolation," she said. "The book must be finished. My brother and I will do it. It will be a memorial to Jim."

Mrs. Pike said she would remain in Israel for a few more days and would make funeral arrangements after she talked with her husband's relatives in the United States.

Search parties of Israeli police, Bedouin trackers and army volunteers spent six days combing the wasteland where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found 20 years ago.

Police Inspector Salman Abu Yaman said Pike apparently was trying to climb out of the canyon and fell about 80 feet to the ledge.

An Israeli pathologist said Pike apparently died instantly from the fall and had been dead two to five days.

Pike's footprints led from two pools of fresh water a few hundred yards from the spot where he began his fatal attempt to climb out of the canyon.

Last Saturday, Pike's undergarments were found not far from where the couple abandoned their car Monday when it became stuck in a dirt track about five miles from the Dead Sea.

Ohio Solons To Return

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 108th General Assembly convenes again Thursday for a one-day session to determine what bills to keep alive until it meets again, possibly in January.

Fixing the exact meeting day for next year's session will be one of the key matters to be taken up by legislators. They also will make appointments to fill vacancies on several committees.

An emergency measure for immediate distribution of local government money allocated in the administration's, education-tax bill will go for a vote in both houses.

The Legislative Office Building Committee will meet Wednesday to select a site for a new state office building and the Legislative Service Commission will meet Friday to name new officers.

The commission also will consider requests or new reports. It is the research arm of the legislature and maintains a full-time staff for non-partisan surveys.

Stock List In Retreat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated on a fairly wide front in moderate trading early this afternoon as the downward trend which carried it sharply lower last week continued.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.01 at 813.49.

Declines led advances by better than 500 issues.

Analysts said many investors remained hesitant because of continuing uncertainty over the domestic economic and international situations.

"There's no apparent indication the Federal Reserve is going to ease up on the tight money situation," an analyst said, "and there's still a lot of concern about the Vietnam situation."

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 1.6 at 286.6, with industrials off 2.6, rails off .9, and utilities off .5.

Power Struggle

The choice will be made by the 42 Republican senators—plus Dirksen's successor if he is appointed by then—at a party conference. But Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the conference chairman, declined to say how soon this might take place.

When Scott defeated Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska, a close ally of Dirksen, in what was primarily a liberal-conservative fight for the whip's job, most of the younger Senate Republicans supported Scott.

While they might back the 68-year-old Pennsylvania for the leadership now, they were likely to leave their options open for the start of the next Congress in January 1971.

Final Rites For Dirksen Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen will lie in state in the rotunda of the Capitol for 24 hours beginning at noon EDT Tuesday.

Sen. Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, the acting Republican leader, said the Dirksen funeral is planned at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the National Presbyterian Church here.

He said Dirksen's body then will be taken to Pekin, Ill., for burial Thursday.

The body of the Senate GOP leader, who died Sunday, is expected to be flown to Pekin, Dirksen's birthplace.

Scott said the senators will convene early Tuesday and go in a group to the rotunda where a brief service will be conducted by the Rev. L. R. Elson, the Senate chaplain.

President Nixon is expected to be present for that service.

Later, the public will be admitted to pay final respects. Scott said there will be a final, brief graveside service in Pekin Thursday.

New Shoes Discarded By State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A shipment of never worn shoes, apparently wanted by no state agency, were determined to be unusable and were thrown away.

The Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction said the shoes were discarded at the Franklin County landfill.

Clem Davis, business manager for the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said he was told by the Department of Finance that 18 pairs of shoes were considered unusable and finance department spokesman said as many as 100 pairs of shoes may have been thrown out.

A garage owner who called the Columbus Dispatch about the shoes said he knew of one person who salvaged more than 18 pairs of the shoes and was selling them.

Boxes found at the landfill carried the label of a Columbus shoe firm and the stamp of the Tiffin State Hospital.

Davis said he was told the shoes were odd sized, out of date styles made at Ohio Penitentiary or bought from a commercial firm.

The Tiffin hospital, Davis said, had the shoes in storage two years and attempted to exchange them but found no one wanted them.

AP Newsman Ousted By Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government today expelled Fenton Wheeler, the Associated Press correspondent in Havana, and gave him and his wife two hours to pack for departure.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government said it objected to Wheeler's reporting in general and in particular to his report Friday that the government had accused a member of the Mexican Embassy staff of spying for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Wheeler was called to the Foreign Ministry at 4 a.m. and told he had two hours to get ready to leave the country.

Militants Free U.S. Ambassador

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to Brazil, C. Burke Elbrick, returned to his residence Sunday night with a cut on his head, freed by his kidnappers after 15 political prisoners reached Mexico.

Brazilian security officials began a widespread hunt for Elbrick's abductors. They searched several houses in the area where he was set free. Police sources said at least a dozen persons were arrested.

The military junta that took over a week ago when President Arthur da Costa e Silva suffered a stroke alerted military and law enforcement agencies to be on guard against a broadened campaign of violence which the two terrorist groups that kidnapped Elbrick promised to unleash.

There was speculation that the junta would issue a decree making death the punishment for terrorism.

The 61-year-old career diplomat came through the ordeal in good shape although he had a gash on the right side of his head caused by a gun butt when he scuffled with his kidnappers. The injury was not serious.

"To coin the understatement of the year, I'm glad to be back," Elbrick said. "I'm glad the kidnappers lived up to their word and let me go." He added he was "grateful to the Brazilian government for taking the action necessary to bring about my liberation."

His wife Elvira was one of the first persons to greet him after he drove up to the heavily guarded embassy residence in a taxi. The couple spent a few moments alone during which President Nixon telephoned from California.

A Voice of America correspondent who was allowed to tape a brief statement by Elbrick told his listeners the ambassador looked "exhausted." An embassy statement said he was "in good physical health and in good spirits."

The Brazilian military plane carrying the 15 prisoners whose release was demanded by Elbrick's kidnappers arrived in

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Interstate Commerce Commission members are to stop accepting free hotel rooms and transportation from trucking and railroad groups, says the agency's chairman.

Virginia Mae Brown has issued a memorandum directing all the ICC officials to pay for all their expenses themselves, it was learned Sunday.

An examination of travel vouchers for the commissioners disclosed some have been traveling for years at the expense of some lawyers who practice before the regulatory board.

Commissioners deny the practice had influenced their thinking, decisions, or constituted a conflict of interest.

Questions over the practice were raised after consumer advocate Ralph Nader and a group of young lawyers working with him for the summer pried into the files of the ICCY and other government agencies.

Oil Tanker Runs Into Heavy Ice

RESOLUTE BAY, N.W.T. (AP) — The U.S. oil tanker Manhattan ran into heavy ice for the first time Sunday as it entered Viscount Melville Sound on its voyage to prove that the Northwest Passage can be used year-round by tankers to bring oil from Alaska to the eastern United States.

As they steamed toward Winter Harbor, the Manhattan and its two support icebreakers found themselves in ice that covered nine-tenths of the water surface.

When the ship reaches Winter Harbor, Capt. Roger Steward and other officials and scientists aboard Humble Oil's Arctic expedition will decide whether to head through the narrow Prince of Wales Strait or to continue along the top of Banks Island through McIlure Strait.

The plan is for the tanker to take the route that offers the worst ice conditions.

Eleven members of the Canadian Parliament returned to Ottawa Sunday night after a visit to the Manhattan in an attempt to bolster Canadian claims that the ship is sailing in Canadian rather than international waters.

One said he considered it a "discourtesy" that the ship was violating tradition by not flying a Canadian flag. But Humble's project manager, Stanley Haas, disagreed. He said it was "standard practice not to fly any flag in international waters."

Social Security Answers

Q — I am the youngest child in our family. I live at home with my mother, who is 43 years old. My mother has been receiving monthly social security benefits. Will my mother's benefits stop when I reach age 18?

A — Benefits for your mother will stop after you have reached the age of 18 until she, herself, reaches age 60. At age 60, she can decide whether to take her widow's benefits at a reduced rate or whether to wait until she reaches age 62 when she can receive full benefits. However, if your mother is severely disabled, she might qualify to receive benefits as a disabled widow as early as age 50.

Q — I am now a student beneficiary. What will happen to my benefits if I take a year off to work and then return to college?

A — Your social security benefits can be resumed when you go back to school if you are still under 22 years of age, providing you are a full-time student and unmarried.

Q — I have been receiving student benefits from social security. I was married January 4, 1969. May I keep my January check?

A — No. Your entitlement to social security ends with the month before the month of your marriage.

Q — While going over some of my records, I found a couple of doctor bills for services I received in 1967. Can I still submit these for Medicare reimbursement?

A — Under the law, there are some time limits for making payment on claims you send in. These limits are as follows:

Services received from October 1, 1967 to September 30, 1968, claims must be filed by December 31, 1969. Services received from October 1, 1968 to September 30, 1969 claims must be filed by December 31, 1970.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Education In School

DEAR ABBY: We were surprised and disappointed to learn that you approve of sex education in the schools. When did you change your mind?

Not too long ago you told a couple of high school students who wanted to study a marriage manual together, "You don't need to study the violin two years before you're able to practice."

Isn't that what sex education in school is?

MR. AND MRS. B.
DEAR MR. AND MRS. B.: No! Sex education in the schools deals with animal and human reproduction, personal hygiene, health, including the seriousness of venereal disease, etc. Marriage manuals deal with the "physical" side of marriage, giving explicit instruction in sexual behavior. This, I agree, has no place in our schools, and is NOT taught there, contrary to what you may have been led to believe!

DEAR ABBY: How can an intelligent woman like you be FOR sex education in the schools?

Why, I heard that one teacher got so carried away while conducting a sex education lecture that she completely disrobed in front of the class!

In another school, the teacher herded the whole class into a dark closet and told them to "feel" each other!

I could tell you much more, but you wouldn't believe it. HORRIFIED IN MELROSE, FLA.

DEAR HORRIFIED: I'm sure I wouldn't. And I don't believe the above incidents were supposed to have occurred, or any of the children who were actually present.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your sensible statement concerning sex education. From my observation, I must conclude that those who equate sex education with smut—and even communism—are the ones who insist that this subject be left in the hands of parents.

On the other hand, I have a friend who is a physician, clearly qualified to hand the subject of "sex."

Yet, when the time came to tell his own son the "facts of life," he was so embarrassed that the son was completely mystified by it all and failed to grasp the content of his father's message. The boy later learned about sex in the traditional alley, as do some 80 per cent of our youngsters.

One might also point out that most parents would be capable of teaching their children reading, writing, and other subjects, but for some reason, when it comes to "sex," trained teachers seem to produce much better results.

"BIRDS AND BEES"

DEAR ABBY: I think you are all wrong to say that sex education in schools is okay. During school years children should concentrate on reading, writing, and arithmetic. And in their spare time they should think about dolls, flying kites, and baseball.

I heard that a school in southern California tried sex education 10 years ago and they had to stop it because over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant.

AGAINST SEX EDUCATION
DEAR AGAINST: Can you provide me with the NAME of that high school in southern California—and proof that over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant? If so, I will publicly apologize.

Liquor Stores May Be Closed By 'Sick' Calls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State liquor stores in Cuyahoga, Lake and Lorain counties were to remain closed today if 175 employees who walked off their jobs Friday morning failed to return to work.

State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook said he knew no reason for the walkout but could not guarantee the stores would be open.

Past failure to deliver pay checks sent by mail on time reportedly has caused some unrest among workers, but Cook said the problem was solved by special mail carriers and all employees were paid last week.

Cook said the workers "will not be restored to duty unless they bring a doctor's certificate or a notarized affidavit certifying as to their illness."

Man Slays Daughter, Takes His Own Life

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Raymond Johnson, 31, Woodsfield, shot his 8-month-old daughter Victoria twice in the head Saturday, police said, and later took his own life.

Police said Johnson shot himself in the rear of the Columbia Hotel as a posse of 40 volunteers closed in on him after the baby's body was discovered in a crib at Johnson's home.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Time was when the Miss America Pageant was a pleasant event winding up the season of a resort town. Since it has been televised, however, it has become the unofficial signal that summer and television reruns are just about over.

Anyway, Miss Michigan, Pamela Anne Eldred was crowned, shed her tears of happiness and all went pretty smoothly during the two-hour NBC program Saturday night. That was only one of a quartet of evening specials the network presented over the weekend to help the living-room audience get back in wintertime TV form. The programs covered considerable territory, starting Friday night with an ambitious and rewarding 90-minute portrait of pianist Arthur Schnitke.

Saturday's Miss America goings-on were preceded by an hour of circus acts. And on Sunday there was an unusual memoir of Britain's defense against the Nazi Luftwaffe almost 30 years ago.

The Rubinstein program showed a vital, vigorous artist of 83, in love with his music, his wife and his life. It was a portrait of a happy man. The artist reminisced, philosophized, joked and talked about music. He played but most of the time that was almost incidental or to illustrate a point.

The high point of the program was Rubinstein playing Chopin's Polonaise in A flat to an audience of students in Israel.

The "All Star Circus" the following night was standard but superior—jugglers, aerialists, tight rope performers, animal acts—handsomely photographed and perfunctorily hosted by Tony Curtis.

"The Battle for Britain," pegged on a motion picture soon to be released, used the simulated scenes to retell very effectively the story of the determined resistance of the outnumbered Royal Air Force in 1940 and the danger and hardship undergone by the people of London.

Scattered through the commentary by actor Michael Caine were some interesting footnotes on the problems of reconstructing accurately events of 30 years ago—of finding aged Spitfires and Hurricanes, the planes that saved Britain, and of reproducing effects of a bombed-out London.

Recommended tonight: "A Country Happening," NBC, 7:30-8 EDT, musical special with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans; "Jack Paar and his Lions," NBC, 8-9, special about Jack's pet lion and his experiences with three offspring of the "Born Free" lions; "The Singers," CBS, 10-11, musical comedy special with Jack Jones and Michelle Lee heading a big cast.

Social Security Answers

Q — I am the youngest child in our family. I live at home with my mother, who is 43 years old. My mother has been receiving monthly social security benefits. Will my mother's benefits stop when I reach age 18?

A — Benefits for your mother will stop after you have reached the age of 18 until she, herself, reaches age 60. At age 60, she can decide whether to take her widow's benefits at a reduced rate or whether to wait until she reaches age 62 when she can receive full benefits. However, if your mother is severely disabled, she might qualify to receive benefits as a disabled widow as early as age 50.

Q — I am now a student beneficiary. What will happen to my benefits if I take a year off to work and then return to college?

A — Your social security benefits can be resumed when you go back to school if you are still under 22 years of age, providing you are a full-time student and unmarried.

Q — I have been receiving student benefits from social security. I was married January 4, 1969. May I keep my January check?

A — No. Your entitlement to social security ends with the month before the month of your marriage.

Q — While going over some of my records, I found a couple of doctor bills for services I received in 1967. Can I still submit these for Medicare reimbursement?

A — Under the law, there are some time limits for making payment on claims you send in. These limits are as follows:

Services received from October 1, 1967 to September 30, 1968, claims must be filed by December 31, 1969. Services received from October 1, 1968 to September 30, 1969 claims must be filed by December 31, 1970.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Education In School

DEAR ABBY: We were surprised and disappointed to learn that you approve of sex education in the schools. When did you change your mind?

Not too long ago you told a couple of high school students who wanted to study a marriage manual together, "You don't need to study the violin two years before you're able to practice."

Isn't that what sex education in school is?

MR. AND MRS. B.

DEAR MR. AND MRS. B.: No! Sex education in the schools deals with animal and human reproduction, personal hygiene, health, including the seriousness of venereal disease, etc. Marriage manuals deal with the "physical" side of marriage, giving explicit instruction in sexual behavior. This, I agree, has no place in our schools, and is NOT taught there, contrary to what you may have been led to believe!

DEAR ABBY: How can an intelligent woman like you be FOR sex education in the schools?

Why, I heard that one teacher got so carried away while conducting a sex education lecture that she completely disrobed in front of the class!

In another school, the teacher herded the whole class into a dark closet and told them to "feel" each other!

I could tell you much more, but you wouldn't believe it.

HORRIFIED IN MELROSE, FLA.

DEAR HORRIFIED: I'm sure I wouldn't. And I don't believe the above incidents were supposed to have occurred, or any of the children who were actually present.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your sensible statement concerning sex education. From my observation, I must conclude that those who equate sex education with smut—and even communism—are the ones who insist that this subject be left in the hands of parents.

On the other hand, I have a friend who is a physician, clearly qualified to hand the subject of "sex."

Yet, when the time came to tell his own son the "facts of life," he was so embarrassed that the son was completely mystified by it all and failed to grasp the content of his father's message. The boy later learned about sex in the traditional alley, as do some 80 per cent of our youngsters.

One might also point out that most parents would be capable of teaching their children reading, writing, and other subjects, but for some reason, when it comes to "sex," trained teachers seem to produce much better results.

"BIRDS AND BEES"

DEAR ABBY: I think you are all wrong to say that sex education in schools is okay. During school years children should concentrate on reading, writing, and arithmetic. And in their spare time they should think about dolls, flying kites, and baseball.

I heard that a school in southern California tried sex education 10 years ago and they had to stop it because over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant.

AGAINST SEX EDUCATION

DEAR AGAINST: Can you provide me with the NAME of that high school in southern California—and proof that over half the girls in the senior class dropped out because they were pregnant? If so, I will publicly apologize.

Liquor Stores May Be Closed By 'Sick' Calls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State liquor stores in Cuyahoga, Lake and Lorain counties may be closed today if 175 employees who walked off their jobs Friday morning failed to return to work.

State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook said he knew no reason for the walkout but could not guarantee the stores would be open.

Past failure to deliver pay checks sent by mail on time reportedly has caused some unrest among workers, but Cook said the problem was solved by special mail carriers and all employees were paid last week.

Cook said the workers "will not be restored to duty unless they bring a doctor's certificate or a notarized affidavit certifying as to their illness."

Man Slays Daughter, Takes His Own Life

WOODSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Raymond Johnson, 31, Woodsfield, shot his 8-month-old daughter Victoria twice in the head Saturday, police said, and later took his own life.

Police said Johnson shot himself in the rear of the Columbia Hotel as a posse of 40 volunteers closed in on him after the baby's body was discovered in a crib at Johnson's home.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Time was when the Miss America Pageant was a pleasant event winding up the season of a resort town. Since it has been televised, however, it has become the unofficial signal that summer and television reruns are just about over.

Anyway, Miss Michigan, Pamela Anne Eldred, was crowned, shed her tears of happiness and all went pretty smoothly during the two-hour NBC program Saturday night. That was only one of a quartet of evening specials the network presented over the weekend to help the living-room audience get back in wintertime TV form.

The programs covered considerable territory, starting Friday night with an ambitious and rewarding 90-minute portrait of pianist Artur Schnabel.

Saturday's Miss America goings-on were preceded by an hour of circus acts. And on Sunday there was an unusual memoir of Britain's defense against the Nazi Luftwaffe almost 30 years ago.

The Rubinstein program showed a vital, vigorous artist of 83, in love with his music, his wife and his life. It was a portrait of a happy man. The artist reminisced, philosophized, joked and talked about music. He played but most of the time that was almost incidental or to illustrate a point.

The high point of the program was Rubinstein playing Chopin's Polonaise in A flat to an audience of students in Israel.

The "All Star Circus" the following night was standard but superior—jugglers, aerialists, tight rope performers, animal acts—handsomely photographed and perfunctorily hosted by Tony Curtis.

"The Battle for Britain," pegged on a motion picture soon to be released, used the simulated scenes to retell very effectively the story of the determined resistance of the outnumbered Royal Air Force in 1940 and the danger and hardship undergone by the people of London.

Scattered through the commentary by actor Michael Caine were some interesting footnotes on the problems of reconstructing accurately events of 30 years ago—of finding aged Spitfires and Hurricanes, the planes that saved Britain, and of reproducing effects of a bombed-out London.

Rhodes Mourns Dirksen's Death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes mourned the death of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois Sunday and hailed him as "a pillar of strength in the building of America and a champion of the principles that have made this nation the greatest on earth."

Rhodes said he was "deeply saddened" by the news of Dirksen's death and called him "one of the truly great Americans of the 20th century."

"Sen. Dirksen," said Rhodes, "cooperated with all the presidents with whom he served regardless of political party. His wisdom and capacity for leadership has made him a legend in his own time."

Coeds In Miniskirts Gambol At Kenyon

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—Coeds in miniskirts adorned the Kenyon College campus as classes began today, marking the first time in 145 years the school has admitted women.

The 159 new Kenyon girls mingled among 425 other new students who arrived at the school early for orientation.

Some 1,300 years ago, a Korean general flew a kite to help win a battle. An ill omen — a shooting star — had panicked his troops. The commander secretly sent up a torch-bearing kite to suggest to his men that the errant star was returning to its place. Next day, the troops soundly defeated superior forces.

Women Improve Status

Women in the United States are far more emancipated than their counterparts in many other parts of the world, much to the annoyance of foreign men who are reminded of this fact. But it may not be thus for many more years.

In country after country, women are branching out into activities unheard of a generation ago. An example is the Japanese woman who not long ago was little more than a servant. She is rapidly being joined in the activists' ranks by women of many nationalities.

Ignoring Reality

It can cost about $1,500 to have a baby, according to the Health Insurance Institute. That figure, including medical, wardrobe and furnishings costs, takes the little one only through the first week of life.

Parents will attest to the fact that costs of rearing a child are also quite high.

Yet income tax laws continue to allow parents only $600 annually in untaxed income for each child. This has absolutely no connection with the realities of living costs in 1969.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert Leslie Cole has spent the adult portion of his 75 years on the business side of magazines—advertising and promoting them, building their circulation, watching their cash—but he thinks editors are more important.

"They are like musical conductors," he says. "The contributions might appear imperceptible but the effects are big."

Any magazine, he says, reflects the editorial personality. You cannot manufacture a magazine to fit a market, he feels. Instead, a good magazine is the subjective product of a good editor with sound ideas and a willingness to prove them.

That would seem to limit the role of the business manager, and Cole's contributions, but his associates don't agree. On Sept. 16 they plan to present him with the magazine industry's highest honor, the Henry Johnson Fisher Award for achievement in magazine publishing.

Cole has been an eminent achiever. As general manager of the Reader's Digest, he helped push domestic circulation to 17.25 million, foreign to 11 million and exposure to perhaps 100 million readers in 100 countries.

Being a closely held corporation, the Digest Association doesn't reveal its profits but they are there, you can be sure, even if the rolling old orchards of Pleasantville, N.Y., are deceptively noncommercial. So is Ft. Knox.

A four-color, single-page advertisement in the Digest will cost $58,275 beginning next January. And many Digest advertisers take multiple pages; last year a 40-page, $1 million-plus ad appeared in one edition.

Sitting in the study of his rambling white colonial on 19 acres in Greenwich, Conn., Cole repeatedly bridged the no-man's land that separates many suspicious magazine editors from their own business offices.

"The success of magazines is clearly dependent on editorial competence," he said. "And that talent, the talent needed to edit a magazine, is one of the rarest of human talents."

What is it made of? "Creative imagination, writing ability and a knowledge of how to deal with people," said Cole, whose mobile face suggests affability and bulldog determination.

Cole was one of the earliest associates of DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace, who founded the Digest. For years he was second only to them in the Digest hierarchy, stepping down recently as executive committee chairman.

Interviewed some years ago by Printer's Ink, an advertising magazine, DeWitt Wallace stated: "He is by far the ablest man in magazine publishing today. . . In a business sense, all the Digest's growth is attributable to Cole."

"The general magazine field has been hurt by TV in a very material, very substantial way," Cole conceded. Even the digest, he confessed, has suffered some, but not nearly as have the picture magazines.

Cole's natural optimism soon overcame the disturbing thoughts. "Over-all," he said, "the magazine industry is very healthy. The future is bright. As the level of education rises so will magazine reading."

The education-magazine relationship is a revealed truth to publishers and they accept it with an almost religious fervor. Cole is among the believers.

"The increase in the educational level of the individual is the key to magazine readership," Cole said again. "Studies show that magazine reader as a media group have the highest level of education."

The importance of this discovery becomes obvious when you reflect that education is being afforded more people than ever, and that more and more people are going on to advanced levels of learning.

The question that remains, despite Cole's affirmations, is whether the editorial or the business side does the most to win those educated readers.

It is an eternal argument, and when a man who spends more than five decades in the business office looks back from age 75 and gives almost all the credit to editors, then the argument really gets all roiled up.

Struthers Still Without School

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Some 3,500 public school pupils in suburban Struthers remained out of classes today as teachers and nonprofessional personnel continued their strike.

Negotiations between the two groups of strikers and the school board ended Saturday with no change reported in the situation. "We never got down to basic facts," one union spokesman said. "It was only ground rules."

Union representatives said they were willing to meet any time to resolve differences over annual pay. Teachers are asking for an increase from $5,600 starting salary to $6,600, with corresponding increases in higher levels. Better fringe benefits also are sought.

Lukens Says Arabs Frustrating Israel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Israel is frustrated by a lack of Arab peace initiatives and is "more militant than ever," according to Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R-Ohio.

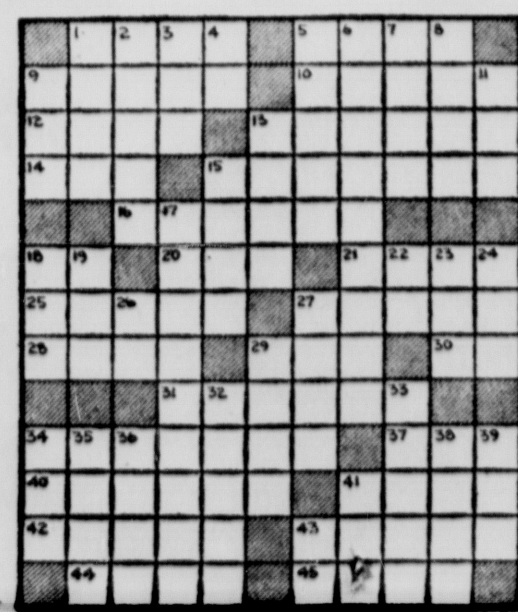

Lukens, speaking at a news conference here Sunday following his return from a one-week tour of Israel and Czechoslovakia, said he approves of the sale of Phantom jets to Israel by the United States. He said the sale would help restore the balance of power in the Middle East.

Dutch merchants in the 17th century started the modern seashell craze by returning from the East Indies with rare and beautiful shells. Cultivated and fashionable Europeans assembled "cabinets," large rooms containing shells, minerals, bones and other natural curiosities.

Eddie Lopez tells of an American business tycoon, who took his wife for a leisurely tour through Ireland, in the course of which they came upon a wondrous old castle which they determined to buy on the spot. They made a deal with the owner, whereupon the wife said, "Everything's perfect—but the castle is drafty and cold. We'll have to replace these old fireplaces with central heating."

"No, no," protested the old owner. "You simply cannot desecrate a historical edifice such as this. I will sell it to you only on condition that you guarantee to leave it exactly as it is now." The wife reluctantly agreed, murmuring sady, "I guess I should have known that we couldn't have archaic and heat it, too."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our little girl just was three. She is our only child. Friends send their children to nursery school as soon as they are three. Isn't this too young for a child to be separated from its mother?

Mrs. S. T. R., New York
Dear Mrs. R.: Obviously, there cannot be a simple rule that applies to all children of this age. In large, sophisticated cities such as yours, pre-school training is available. In many communities around the country there are no such facilities.

Some children are shy and timid and may need a longer period of support in their homes and with their parents. Others may be more ready for early separation from their mothers for at least a few hours a day.

Your friends' advice is undoubtedly based on their own needs, and cannot necessarily apply to yours.

There are many benefits for an only child when she is part of a pre-school group of her peers. She will quickly learn how to get along with others, by giving as well as taking. She will learn constructive things at play. Her creative instincts will be encouraged by well-chosen educational materials. Self-discipline, too, is something she will learn in a group situation.

At the Harvard School of Education, a remarkable pre-school project is in progress, under the guidance of Dr. Burton L. White. Under his direction, expertly trained teachers and research workers are learning that the training of the three-year-old child may set the pattern for eventual emotional and intellectual development.

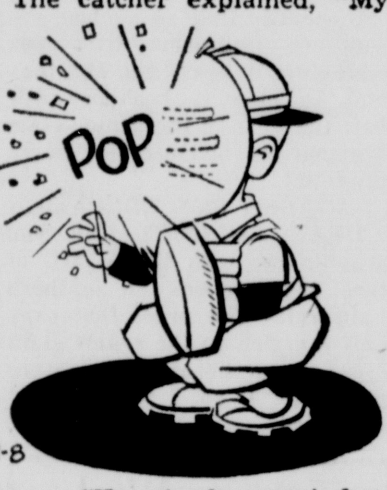

Your decision about pre-school training must depend on your child's readiness. Consultation with an objective person like your physician, or a psychologist, will help you to decide.

I am embarrassed because my two-year-old child is not yet completely toilet-trained. We have tried everything, but the situation seems to be getting worse instead of better. What do you advise?

Mrs. B. G., Georgia
Dear Mrs. G.: Perhaps you have been trying too hard, and the pressures put on your child may be intensifying the problem.

Not all children are bowel-trained at the same age. This is seen by people who have many children, and even with the same attitudes towards them, the time varies considerably.

As a child grows older, he now a Golden Ager, too.

By FREDERICK K. LOWELL

For John Chamberlain
In spite of the SDS-ers' paranoid reliance on the conspiracy theory of history (they fear the CIA, the FBI and the military in much the same way extreme rightists fear Communists), many sincerely believe their own rhetoric. One student suggested that they are like little children who have just wakened to the fact that the world is imperfect and, as a result, seek to right every wrong with a crusading zeal.

Though some SDS-ers believe their own rhetoric, one can sense a certain falsehood in the movement. If someone handed them rifles in a genuine revolution, it is doubtful how committed they would be. They, who for the most part have never seen a foreign country, who have no conception of what it is like to be so hungry or so cold that sleep is impossible, who have no idea how much freedom of dissent they have in this country as compared to other nations, cannot possibly conceive of a real revolution. It is questionable how militant they would be once the streets were flowing with blood, once famine set in, once widespread destruction took place stemming from a revolutionary situation in this country.

One is also struck by the totalitarian aspects of the SDS movement. This is evident in the tactics they employ, which consist entirely of depriving other students and other groups of their basic rights and freedoms. Even SDS-ers claim of participatory democracy within the movement is a myth; a small group of individuals control each campus SDS group and control each "action."

SDS's totalitarian goals can be seen in their philosophy, which borrows the worst aspects of Marxist, Leninist and even Stalinist thought. The true character of SDS was recently revealed by a question that a Columbia student directed to an SDS member. He asked, "If you succeed in setting up a Marxist University, am I free to be a non-Marxist?" The answer, "Yes, but we will struggle against you," which, in SDS rhetoric, means elimination.

At Columbia, in the last two years, members of SDS have committed the following crimes:

1. Criminal trespass
2. Breaking and entering
3. Assault and battery
4. Arson
5. Vandalism
6. Destruction of personal property
7. Burglary (removal of documents from the president's office)
8. Violation of a court order (to evacuate occupied buildings)

The flagrant violation of the rights of Columbia students has been due partly because of the inaction of college officials and partly because of the apathy of the student body.

But this is changing. College administrations across the country are realizing the need for orderly progress on the college campuses, and students are beginning to actively oppose SDS and other disruptive groups.

SDS will continue to test the resolve of college administrations to protect the rights of students and faculty. If that resolve proves to be again weak, then another wave of violence and hysteria will eat at the roots of higher education. Students, faculty and administrations must band together to resist disruption and in so doing make it clear that there is a better, surer way toward reform. If they cannot do this, education and academic freedom will not survive.

Don Ho

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — To the rest of America, Don Ho seems to be the symbol of the new Hawaii—fresh, alive, up-to-date, loaded with island charm. To the islanders, he is something else again.

Perhaps it was only natural. Ho was the hometown boy who made good, and a few years ago he might have been elected mayor of Honolulu in a landslide. Not now.

The mainland also has discovered the sleepy-eyed entertainer, and now he stars in television specials, in big-city concerts and in the casinos of Las Vegas. He no longer is Hawaii's own. Also, he has been the target of bad publicity over reports that he sluffed off shows, used "blue" material before family audiences and battled with his management.

There is no evidence of any lack of popularity at Duke Kahanamoku's night club, which is packed nightly with tourists and returning Vietnam veterans. Prices are the steepest in Waikiki—$4.50 cover charge, $4.95-$8.95 for dinner, $1.75-$3 per drink. But long lines await each show. For his weekly labors Ho is paid a reported $17,800.

He can be a crowd pleaser. He sings less than he did in his early career. "I'm not really a singer," he claims. But he does his hit numbers—"Pearly Shells," "Tiny Bubbles," and "Born Free"—and evokes laughter and applause by featuring married couples and children in audience participation. He presents promising new singers, and the show is backed by a large orchestra with string section.

After a dinner show, Ho relaxed in his upstairs apartment and discussed a number of matters, including his relations with the locals.

"Unfortunately, they can't come to see me because the price is too high for them," he remarked. "And besides, Honolulu is not a late-night town. The people here are working people, and they go to bed early and get up early. The only locals who come to see me perform are other entertainers, off-duty police, people like that."

"But that doesn't mean I am out of touch. My people understand what I am doing. I am interpreting the new Hawaii to the mainland, and that is good for Hawaii."

"They know I haven't changed. When I drive around town in my car, they wave hello to me, and I can tell that they feel warmly toward me."

Women Improve Status

Women in the United States are far more emancipated than their counterparts in many other parts of the world, much to the annoyance of foreign men who are reminded of this fact. But it may not be thus for many more years.

In country after country, women are branching out into activities unheard of a generation ago. An example is the Japanese woman who not long ago was little more than a servant. She is rapidly being joined in the activists' ranks by women of many nationalities.

Ignoring Reality

It can cost about $1,500 to have a baby, according to the Health Insurance Institute. That figure, including medical, wardrobe and furnishings costs, takes the little one only through the first week of life.

Parents will attest to the fact that costs of rearing a child are also quite high.

Yet income tax laws continue to allow parents only $600 annually in untaxed income for each child. This has absolutely no connection with the realities of living costs in 1969.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert Leslie Cole has spent the adult portion of his 75 years on the business side of magazines—advertising and promoting them, building their circulation, watching their cash—but he thinks editors are more important.

"They are like musical conductors," he says. "The contributions might appear imperceptible but the effects are big."

Any magazine, he says, reflects the editorial personality. You cannot manufacture a magazine to fit a market, he feels. Instead, a good magazine is the subjective product of a good editor with sound ideas and a willingness to prove them.

That would seem to limit the role of the business manager, and Cole's contributions, but his associates don't agree. On Sept. 16 they plan to present him with the magazine industry's highest honor, the Henry Johnson Fisher Award for achievement in magazine publishing.

Cole has been an eminent achiever. As general manager of the Reader's Digest, he helped push domestic circulation to 17.25 million, foreign to 11 million and exposure to perhaps 100 million readers in 100 countries.

Being a closely held corporation, the Digest Association doesn't reveal its profits but they are there, you can be sure, even if the rolling old orchards of Pleasantville, N.Y., are deceptively noncommercial. So is Ft. Knox.

A four-color, single-page advertisement in the Digest will cost $58,275 beginning next January. And many Digest advertisers take multiple pages; last year a 40-page, $1 million-plus ad appeared in one edition.

Sitting in the study of his rambling white colonial on 19 acres in Greenwich, Conn., Cole repeatedly bridged the no-man's land that separates many suspicious magazine editors from their own business offices.

"The success of magazines is clearly dependent on editorial competence," he said. "And that talent, the talent needed to edit a magazine, is one of the rarest of human talents."

What is it made of? "Creative imagination, writing ability and a knowledge of how to deal with people," said Cole, whose mobile face suggests affability and bulldog determination.

Cole was one of the earliest associates of DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace, who founded the Digest. For years he was second only to them in the Digest hierarchy, stepping down recently as executive committee chairman.

Interviewed some years ago by Printer's Ink, an advertising magazine, DeWitt Wallace stated: "He is by far the ablest man in magazine publishing today. . . In a business sense, all the Digest's growth is attributable to Cole."

"The general magazine field has been hurt by TV in a very material, very substantial way," Cole conceded. Even the digest, he confessed, has suffered some, but not nearly as have the picture magazines.

Cole's natural optimism soon overcame the disturbing thoughts. "Over-all," he said, "the magazine industry is very healthy. The future is bright. As the level of education rises so will magazine reading."

The education-magazine relationship is a revealed truth to publishers and they accept it with an almost religious fervor. Cole is among the believers.

"The increase in the educational level of the individual is the key to magazine readership," Cole said again. "Studies show that magazine reader as a media group have the highest level of education."

The importance of this discovery becomes obvious when you reflect that education is being afforded more people than ever, and that more and more people are going on to advanced levels of learning.

The question that remains, despite Cole's affirmations, is whether the editorial or the business side does the most to win those educated readers.

It is an eternal argument, and when a man who spends more than five decades in the business office looks back from age 75 and gives almost all the credit to editors, then the argument really gets all roiled up.

Struthers Still Without School

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Some 3,500 public school pupils in suburban Struthers remained out of classes today as teachers and nonprofessional personnel continued their strike.

Negotiations between the two groups of strikers and the school board ended Saturday with no change reported in the situation. "We never got down to basic facts," one union spokesman said. "It was only ground rules."

Union representatives said they were willing to meet any time to resolve differences over annual pay. Teachers are asking for an increase from $5,600 starting salary to $6,600, with corresponding increases in higher levels. Better fringe benefits also are sought.

Lukens Says Arabs Frustrating Israel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Israel is frustrated by a lack of Arab peace initiatives and is "more militant than ever," according to Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R-Ohio.

Lukens, speaking at a news conference here Sunday following his return from a one-week tour of Israel and Czechoslovakia, said he approves of the sale of Phantom jets to Israel by the United States. He said the sale would help restore the balance of power in the Middle East.

Dutch merchants in the 17th century started the modern seashell craze by returning from the East Indies with rare and beautiful shells. Cultivated and fashionable Europeans assembled "cabinets," large rooms containing shells, minerals, bones and other natural curiosities.

Eddie Lopez tells of an American business tycoon, who took his wife for a leisurely tour through Ireland, in the course of which they came upon a wondrous old castle which they determined to buy on the spot. They made a deal with the owner, whereupon the wife said, "Everything is drafty and cold. We'll have to replace these old fireplaces with central heating."

"No, no," protested the old owner. "You simply cannot desecrate a historical edifice such as this. I will sell it to you only on condition that you guarantee to leave it exactly as it is now."

The wife reluctantly agreed, murmuring sadly, "I guess I should have known that we couldn't have arched and heat it too."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our little girl just was three. She is our only child. Friends send their children to nursery school as soon as they are three. Isn't this too young for a child to be separated from its mother?

Mrs. S. T. R., New York
Dear Mrs. R.: Obviously, there cannot be a single rule that applies to all children of this age. In large, sophisticated cities such as yours, pre-school training is available. In many communities around the country there are no such facilities.

Some children are shy and timid and may need a longer period of support in their homes and with their parents. Others may be more ready for early separation from their mothers for at least a few hours a day.

Your friends' advice is undoubtedly based on their own needs, and cannot necessarily apply to yours.

There are many benefits for an only child when she is part of a pre-school group of her peers. She will quickly learn how to get along with others, by giving as well as taking. She will learn constructive things at play. Her creative instincts will be encouraged by well-chosen educational materials. Self-discipline, too, is something she will learn in a group situation.

At the Harvard School of Education, a remarkable pre-school project is in progress, under the guidance of Dr. Burton L. White. Under his direction, expertly trained teachers and research workers are learning that the training of the three-year-old child may set the pattern for eventual emotional and intellectual development.

Your decision about pre-school training must depend on your child's readiness. Consultation with an objective person like your physician, or a psychologist, will help you to decide.

I am embarrassed because my two-year-old child is not yet completely toilet-trained. We have tried everything, but the situation seems to be getting worse instead of better. What do you advise?

Mrs. B. G., Georgia
Dear Mrs. G.: Perhaps you have been trying too hard, and the pressures put on your child may be intensifying the problem.

Not all children are bowel-trained at the same age. This is seen by people who have many children, and even with the same attitudes towards them, the time varies considerably.

As a child grows older, he now a Golden Ager, too.

needs the mother's encouragement rather than scolding. It is astonishing how sensitive a two-year-old can be to a disapproving look from a mother. Punishment, looks of disgust, and severe training are not recommended because, even if they accomplish the purpose, the child may be left with psychological scars. Bide your time, be more patient and try to be more casual about his mistakes. You would be surprised how often children toilet-train themselves when the pressure is off.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

An American explorer, Gene Savoy, has announced he will start early in 1970 on an expedition to South America seeking to find the lost civilization of the fabled El Dorado (the Golden Man). The adventure sounds like it may have rich possibilities.

El Dorado's tribe was supposed to be so enormously wealthy that at annual festivals the head man covered his entire body with gold dust. He certainly must have been a shining example.

Since the 1500s many have tried to find El Dorado's loot but he has remained not only the Golden One but also the Invisible Man.

Savoy plans to make use of helicopters, planes, motorized canoes and a motor barge in his hunt for the legendary golden race. You'll have to admit—he certainly will be trying!

Spanish Conquistadores were the first to look for El Dorado but they failed and had to settle for Inca gold—which, incidentally, wasn't peanuts!

Even Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced tobacco to England tried to find El Dorado but flopped. Maybe smoke got in his eyes.

On hearing about Gene Savoy's proposed expedition, Granddaddy Jenkins ups and says he wishes he could join it. Maybe Gramps thinks he has the qualifications because he's

SDS Totalitarianism

By FREDERICK K. LOWELL
For John Chamberlain

In spite of the SDS-ers' paranoid reliance on the conspiracy theory of history (they fear the CIA, the FBI and the military in much the same way extreme rightists fear Communists), many sincerely believe their own rhetoric. One student suggested that they are like little children who have just wakened to the fact that the world is imperfect and, as a result, seek to right every wrong with a crusading zeal.

Though some SDS-ers believe their own rhetoric, one can sense a certain falsehood in the movement. If someone handed them rifles in a genuine revolution, it is doubtful how committed they would be. They, who for the most part have never seen a foreign country, who have no conception of what it is like to be so hungry or so cold that sleep is impossible, who have no idea how much freedom of dissent they have in this country as compared to other nations, cannot possibly conceive of a real revolution. It is questionable how militant they would be once the streets were flowing with blood, once famine set in, once widespread destruction took place stemming from a revolutionary situation in this country.

One is also struck by the totalitarian aspects of the SDS movement. This is evident in the tactics they employ, which consist entirely of depriving other students and other groups of their basic rights and freedoms. Even SDS-ers claim of participatory democracy within the movement is a myth; a small group of individuals control each campus SDS group and control each "action."

SDS's totalitarian goals can be seen in their philosophy, which borrows the worst aspects of Marxist, Leninist and even Stalinist thought. The true character of SDS was recently revealed by a question that a Columbia student directed to an SDS member. He asked, "If you succeed in setting up a Marxist University, am I free to be a non-Marxist?" The answer, "Yes, but we will struggle against you," which, in SDS rhetoric, means elimination.

At Columbia, in the last two years, members of SDS have committed the following crimes:

1. Criminal trespass
2. Breaking and entering
3. Assault and battery
4. Arson
5. Vandalism
6. Destruction of personal property
7. Burglary (removal of documents from the president's office)
8. Violation of a court order (to evacuate occupied buildings)

The flagrant violation of the rights of Columbia students has been due partly because of the inaction of college officials and partly because of the apathy of the student body.

But this is changing. College administrations across the country are realizing the need for orderly progress on the college campuses, and students are beginning to actively oppose SDS and other disruptive groups.

SDS will continue to test the resolve of college administrations to protect the rights of students and faculty. If that resolve proves to be again weak, then another wave of violence and hysteria will eat at the roots of higher education. Students, faculty and administrations must band together to resist disruption and in so doing make it clear that there is a better, surer way toward reform. If they cannot do this, education and academic freedom will not survive.

Don Ho

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — To the rest of America, Don Ho seems to be the symbol of the new Hawaii—fresh, alive, up-to-date, loaded with island charm. To the islanders, he is something else again.

Perhaps it was only natural. Ho was the hometown boy who made good, and a few years ago he might have been elected mayor of Honolulu in a landslide.

Not now. The mainland also has discovered the sleepy-eyed entertainer, and now he stars in television specials, in big-city concerts and in the casinos of Las Vegas. He no longer is Hawaii's own. Also, he has been the target of bad publicity over reports that he sluffed off shows, used "blue" material before family audiences and battled with his management.

There is no evidence of any lack of popularity at Duke Kahanamoku's night club, which is packed nightly with tourists and returning Vietnam veterans. Prices are the steepest in Waikiki—$4.50 cover charge, $4.95-$8.95 for dinner, $1.75-$3 per drink. But long lines await each show. For his weekly labors Ho is paid a reported $17,800.

Ho can be a crowd pleaser. He sings less than he did in his early career. "I'm not really a singer," he claims. But he does his hit numbers—"Pearly Shells," "Tiny Bubbles," and "Born Free"—and evokes laughter and applause by featuring married couples and children in audience participation. He presents promising new singers, and the show is backed by a large orchestra with string section.

After a dinner show, Ho relaxed in his upstairs apartment and discussed a number of matters, including his relations with the locals.

"Unfortunately, they can't come to see me because the price is too high for them," he remarked. "And besides, Honolulu is not a late-night town. The people here are working people, and they go to bed early and get up early. The only locals who come to see me perform are other entertainers, off-duty police, people like that."

"But that doesn't mean I am out of touch. My people understand what I am doing. I am interpreting the new Hawaii to the mainland, and that is good for Hawaii."

"They know I haven't changed. When I drive around town in my car, they wave hello to me, and I can tell that they feel warmly toward me."

Strong Steel Production Predicted For Near Future

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The rate at which finished steel is being ordered will keep production strong and shipments brisk the next couple of months, Steel magazine reported today.

Demand from the auto industry and the seasonal strengthening of business at other metalworking plants is expected to bring a steady rise in producers' order backlogs.

The metalworking weekly said a rise is expected in September shipments from U.S. mills of at least 5 per cent over the estimated August total of 7.5 million net tons. Another gain of 5 to 10 per cent in October would bring the total for that month above eight million tons, Steel noted.

"It's too early to size up November and December steel order volume," Steel said, "but Steelmen generally are optimistic. They do not anticipate much, if any, sag in activity before the first quarter of next year, despite the depressive influence of the monetary and fiscal restraints exerted on the economy to curb inflation."

"Consequently, fourth quarter mill shipments of finished steel are seen topping 23 million tons and bringing the total movement for all of 1969 to a record in excess of 93 million tons," Steel said.

Steel production is continuing at a steady pace, with raw steel output for the week ended Sept. 6 estimated at 2,635,000 net tons, unchanged from the preceding week.

Steel said foreign steelmakers "are making a run on U.S. supplies of scrap." Exports have been draining scrap supplies from Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago, as well as from the Atlantic, Gulf and West coasts.

Steel's price composite on top grade steelmaking scrap rose $2.33 a gross ton to $35.33—the highest level since March 1966.

Pam Eldred Is Crowned Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The new Miss America, Pamela Ann Eldred, says she likes sincere men and believes in the authority of her elders.

The 21-year-old Michigan blonde today leaves the resort city where she was crowned Miss America 1970 on Saturday night for a trip to New York City. There she will begin nine days of wardrobe fittings to prepare for personal appearance tours.

She began the first day of her reign Sunday with a news conference, where she was asked to describe the ideal man.

"A sincere one," she said. "One who puts the interest of others ahead of his."

On the subject of campus disputes, she said, "I'm a firm believer in authority. I have a mind of my own, but why should I defy my elders just for the sake of defying them, if I know they're right?"

A green-eyed natural blonde from the Detroit suburb of Birmingham, she will have to postpone for a year her studies at Mercy College of Detroit, where she is a speech and drama major.

She has been the lead dancer for the Detroit City Ballet, and hopes for a Broadway musical career. Her singing voice is "loud enough to project throughout a theater," she said.

The 5-foot-5½ beauty is a trim 110 pounds on a 34-21-34 frame. She said she maintains her figure without dieting.

Early in the Eisenhower administration, Adlai Stevenson—the presidential candidate defeated in 1952—called the administration "dreary."

Dirksen countered with: "Quite often Adlai has a sense of fitness in selecting his adjectives. Dreary is the word. It is no glamorous or dramatic adjective to cleanse the temple of government of its defilement, indicating grafters and boddlers of the 22 major scandals of the Truman administration... it goes forward with vigor even though it be a dreary job."

Everything about him added to the image. His face, florid and lumpy, could be sad, piteous, sly, melodramatic, startled—whatever punctuation his speech at the time demanded. And always there was the hair—wispy, white, always looking as if he had just stepped from a speedy convertible.

"If you have some kind of trademark like unruly hair, people get to recognize you," he said.

Even when he was in the hospital—which was often—Dirksen managed to get in his thrusts. In 1964 he had missed a week of debate leading to a tax cut bill. His words were later relayed to the Senate.

"Perhaps you can imagine my bed-ridden amazement, my pajama-ruffled consternation, yes my pillow-laden astonishment this week, to learn that three Republican-sponsored proposals to assist in achieving laudable goals had been defeated."

Classes began today. Further information may be obtained by contacting the academic dean or the registrar at 474-8897. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

During registration week, the office will also be opened at 6 p.m.

New York, N.Y. (Special): The embarrassing itch caused by hemorrhoids is most torturous. But science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. And all without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.

The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other hemorrhoid formula like it. Preparation H also lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

WASHINGTON (AP) — His language smacked of Shakespeare and the Bible and Victorian England, his delivery of William Jennings Bryan, his fervor of Billy Sunday.

His stage could have been the Chautauqua circuit and his product patent medicine. But he made it politics and when he spoke it was pure Americana, like the Fourth of July picnics of old in Pekin, Ill., where he grew up.

Everett McKinley Dirksen was an orator, a master at unrolling cubic yards of rhetoric at the slightest nudge. He was of the breed that went out with mustache cups and trolleys and shoes with hooks for laces.

He was the purveyor of the well-said put-down as well as the silky threads of praise. When Dirksen spoke, it flowed. It flowed.

"What strange doubts assail this timid generation of today as it beholds the challenges to both liberty and equality," he said once at Gettysburg on the 98th anniversary of Lincoln's address.

"We seem beset with fear not faith, with doubt not confidence, with compromise not conviction, are drenched with the literature of fear and doubt. Survival has become the main theme."

ed by very narrow margins, victims of that new White House telephonic half-nelson known as the "Texas twist."

Like a consummate actor, Dirksen used body English to accompany his stentorian, sonorous, mellifluous tones. In one speech there was mention of choreographer and the Senate was treated to the delightful sight of the portly Dirksen tippy-toeing like a ballet dancer, twirling around the floor.

When he wanted to quiet a crowd, Dirksen would spread both hands in front of him, palms down, and gaze off into space as if communing with far-off, unseen spirits.

"Overemphasis," he explained, "reminds me of the preacher who sprinkled the margins of his sermon with instructions addressed to himself—cues like 'argument weak here; shout like hell.'"

Finger-pointing, he explained, should be held in reserve for special occasions. One such occasion was the 1952 GOP convention when he was backing Sen. Robert A. Taft for the presidential nomination while Thomas E. Dewey—twice defeated candidate—was pulling for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

From the rostrum, the Dirksen hand shot out, diamond glittering on one finger. Pointing straight at Dewey, Dirksen bel-lowed: "We followed you before and you took us down the road to defeat."

Dirksen spoke angrily about "the anarchy of mob conduct" in America and spoke about "the strange ferment and turbulence of today's youth."

Of war protesters he said "they do not burn draft cards behind the barn or in the cellar. There must be a network cam-era around or it isn't successful."

His first recording venture was a reading of history. He ended it by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, explaining afterward: "I think I would die unhappy unless I made some contribution to putting America, and particularly young America, back into the stream of tradition."

Refinery Fire Damage High

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five tanks of liquid gas and motor oil exploded in flames late Sunday at the Philadelphia refinery of Atlantic Richfield Co., killing one worker. It was the second major refinery fire in the southwest part of the city in three days.

The blaze broke out at 11:50 p.m. in adjacent propane and phenol extraction units with a combined capacity of 10,500 barrels daily. The units were filled and operating.

The man killed—Stanton Pillingham, 63, of Lansdown—was one of five working the units, a company spokesman said. Five other workers were injured, none seriously, officials said.

Steel production is continuing at a steady pace, with raw steel output for the week ended Sept. 6 estimated at 2,635,000 net tons, unchanged from the preceding week.

Steel said foreign steelmakers "are making a run on U.S. supplies of scrap. . . . Exports have been draining scrap supplies from Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago, as well as from the Atlantic, Gulf and West coasts."

Steel's price composite on top grade steelmaking scrap rose $2.33 a gross ton to $35.33—the highest level since March 1966.

New Grange Royalty Are Archer, Lands

The crowning of the Pickaway County Grange Prince and Princess was the highlight of the evening meeting held at the Scioto Valley Grange hall with grange members from five counties present.

The theme of the pageant was "Autumn Leaves". The setting for the candidates was a lawn scene enclosed in a picket fence.

During the singing of the theme song the candidates were introduced by the county Grange Deputy, Paul M. Dunkle who served as the master of ceremonies.

Musical numbers interspersed with the evening program were provided by Mrs. Orban Burchwell, pianist; Mrs. John Cooper, Randy Wolfe and Randy Burchwell.

Art Dick presented his winning speech, "Safety Around Machines." Also featured on the program was Judy Albert of Ross county who gave her reading "The Creation" which won best of show honors at the Grange talent contest held at the Ohio State Fair and will be presented at the National Grange Convention in November.

Mrs. Monroe Detweiler of Fairfield county who holds the office of Ceres in the Ohio State Grange was present to crown the prince, Keith Lands of Washington Grange and the princess, Debbie Archer of Nebraska Grange. These two young persons will represent this county in the contest at the state convention in Columbus this October. They were selected the winners by receiving the highest score on a written test taken earlier in the week.

All contestants were presented gifts from the granges in Pickaway county. Presenting the gifts were Alisa Judy and Greg and Randy Burchwell who served as the royal pages for the ceremony.

Pickaway County Junior Matron, Mrs. Paul Dawson and the deputy presented sashes and trophies to the winners.

Runners-up in the contest were Betty Bolander of Washington Grange and Sheryl Hines of Nebraska Grange.

Aunt Solves Problem

WHITEHAVEN, England (AP) — Doctors were puzzled when 9-week-old Patrick Walton cried a lot, choked on his bottle and seemed happy only when sitting upright. Then an aunt peered down his throat and pulled out a forgotten five-inch piece of plastic tube that had been inserted to help the baby start breathing at birth. Patrick improved immediately.

From the rostrum, the Dirksen hand shot out, diamond glittering on one finger. Pointing straight at Dewey, Dirksen belatedly: "We followed you before and you took us down the road to defeat."

Dirksen spoke angrily about "the anarchy of mob conduct" in America and spoke about "the strange ferment and turbulence of today's youth."

Of war protesters he said "they do not burn draft cards behind the barn or in the cellar. There must be a network camera around or it isn't successful."

His first recording venture was a reading of history. He ended it by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, explaining afterward:

"I think I would die unhappy unless I made some contribution to putting America, and particularly young America, back into the stream of tradition."

Killebrew, Twins Rout A's In 16-4 Slugfest At Oakland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Harmon Killebrew may not be a million laughs, but he's sure killing the Oakland Athletics.

The unassuming and soft-spoken "Killer" exploded two homers, one a grand slam, out of the Oakland Coliseum and drove in seven runs Sunday to lead the Twins to a 16-4 rout of the A's.

The performance virtually buried Oakland's chances in the American League's West Division race. The Athletics now trail the Twins by 8½ games with about three weeks to go in the regular season.

Killebrew, who boosted his American League-leading RBI total to 128, a personal season high, hammered a three-run homer in the first inning and drilled his grand slam in the second. He had to leave the game however, after bruising his knee in the fourth inning.

In the other American League games, Baltimore topped Detroit, 6-5, on Mark Belanger's 14th-inning single; Del Unser's two-out homer in the 10th gave Washington a 3-2 victory over Boston; the Cleveland Indians snapped a tie with a run in the seventh and scored three more times in the eighth to beat New York 7-3; Billy Wayne pitched Chicago to a 4-1 victory over California and Seattle rallied for two runs in the 10th inning to nip Kansas City, 7-6.

Killebrew's assault on Oakland's pitching staff began in the first inning when he unloaded a three-run homer, his 41st, off starter Fred Talbot. Tito Francona, who drove in all of Oakland's runs, tied the score at 3-3 with a three-run double in the first.

Killebrew's 42nd homer, a grand slam off rookie Vida Blue, highlighted a five-run Minnesota second inning that put the game away.

Killebrew left the game in the fourth when he suffered a bruised knee in a home plate collision as he tried to score from second base on a single.

CHEERING SECTION—St. Louis area Playboy Bunnies (from left) Patsy, Vivien, Tammy and Brandy drop into the hospital to cheer up Chuck Latourette, St. Louis Cardinals' star punter and punt-and-kick return specialist. Chuck is out of action for season as result of a torn knee ligament.

Moody Wins Golf Series

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Orville Moody never had it so good as an Army sergeant playing amateur golf.

The second-year pro from Killeen, Tex., came on strong Sunday with a three-under par 67 for a two-stroke victory in the World Series of Golf.

Archer's second-place finish was worth $15,000 while PGA u-listist Floyd and British Open champ Jacklin, who shot a 72, split $12,500.

Moody, who played almost flawless golf with 15 pars and three birds, said he putted better than at any time he's been on the tour.

Moody said he still cherished his victory in the U.S. Open more than anything else.

"I think the Open victory has to be my biggest thrill. You play against 150 top pros in the Open and only three in the Series."

Archer, plagued by a tennis elbow and stomach disorder all week, said he was "pleased to be this close. I have been playing terrible the last three weeks. Orville was very aggressive once he got the lead."

Orville Moody

His 36-hole score of 141 earned him $50,000 and pushed him near the $130,000 mark for the year in unofficial winnings.

The 35-year-old Moody didn't come close to that figure in 14 years with the Army.

"From the fourth hole on, I felt I would take it. I was hitting everything good," the modest Texan said.

But he praised runnerup George Archer "who played the best, but he couldn't hole any putts."

Archer, the towering Californian who won the Masters, finished with a 69 for 143 while first-round leader Ray Floyd was slipping to a 73 for a tie with Tony Jacklin of London, England, at 145.

Washington Loses To Hayes, 14-6

Washington C. H. lost to Delaware Hayes, 14-6, Saturday in the rain. The Blue Lions were the sixth South Central Ohio League team to lose a football opener.

Two fumbles set up the two Delaware Hayes touchdowns. Both came in the first half.

Steve Ladd recovered the first fumble on the 20-yard line and four plays later Skip Martin scored from the nine. Jeff Birkam's boot gave the hosts a 7-0 lead.

Washington fumbled on the first play from scrimmage following the kickoff. A 26-yard pass from Doug Smith to Rick Middletown made the score 13-0 and Birkam booted for a 14-0 lead.

Washington's lone score was a 68-yard punt return by Keith Evans in the third quarter. The extra point kick was blocked. Except for the three scores, neither team seriously threatened.

In games last Friday, Grove City downed Circleville, 21-0; Springfield Northwestern defeated Miami Trace, 53-8; Hamilton Taft edged Wilmington, 22-14 and Lebanon stopped Hillsboro, 24-6.

This week Circleville tries to get on the winning cycle at Teays Valley, Washington hosts a tough Chillicothe team, Blanchester plays at Hillsboro, Greenfield travels to Jackson, Miami Trace and Pleasant View tangle on the former's field and Cincinnati Moeller plays at Wilmington.

Lionel Taylor holds the American Football League pass catching record with 567. He retired after the 1968 season.

Padres Jolt Dodgers With 4-2 Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
With friends like the San Diego Padres, who needs enemies? Certainly not the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"They (the Dodgers) were friendly when they came here, but they aren't any more," observed San Diego skipper Pres-tos Gomez after his lowly Pa-dres rallied to beat the Los Angeles 4-2 Sunday and sweep the four-game series, dropping the Dodgers from third to fourth place in the National League West and jolting their flag hopes.

Many Padres used to be members of the Dodger family, but the only family they resembled over the weekend was the Cosa Nostra. Consider:

—Buzze Bavasi, president of the Padres, spent his entire baseball career in the Dodger organization, serving as vice president and general manager from 1951 through 1968.

—Field manager Gomez was a Dodger coach the last four seasons.

—San Diego pitching coach

Roger Craig was a Dodger hurler during seven seasons and later scouted and managed in the minors for them.

—Coach Sparky Anderson spent six years as an infielder in the Dodger chain.

—Broadcaster Duke Snider was one of the all-time Dodger greats, roaming the outfield from 1948-62 and setting a club record of 43 home runs in 1956.

Despite the four-game shock treatment, the Dodgers trail first-place San Francisco by only 2½ games. The Giants lead Cincinnati by 1½ games and Atlanta by two.

Elsewhere in the NL, Atlanta nudged Cincinnati 7-3, Houston nipped San Francisco 7-6, Pittsburgh took Chicago 7-5 in 11 innings, trimming the Cubs' East Division lead by 2½ games over the New York Mets, who walloped Philadelphia 9-3, and Montreal blanked St. Louis 3-0.

Ed Spiezio's breaking single highlighted a three-run rally in the seventh that carried San Diego past the Dodgers. The Padres trailed 2-1 entering the inning, but Claude Osteen walked Jose Arcia and Roberto Pena doubled him home.

Al Ferrara—another ex-Dodger—drew an intentional walk before Spiezio singled to break the tie. Clarence Gaston singled home the final run of the inning.

Relievers Gary Ross and Billy McCool choked off Dodger threats in the eighth and ninth to save the triumph for Al San-torini.

"I was amused by their change of attitude," Gomez said of his former colleagues. "They were laughing and having fun when they were beating us so bad earlier in the season."

The Dodgers held a 9-2 edge over the Padres before the sweep, including such lopsided victories as 19-0, 14-0, 11-0 and 10-1.

"Now they're sore," Gomez continued. "Len Gabrielson was yelling at our bench saying, 'You donkeys, you don't have any right to beat us.' And Ted Sizemore was getting on Moon, calling him 'Old man.' If they'd lost four straight to San Francisco they'd figure they got beat by a better club, but it killed them to lose four straight to us."

Helwagen Wins Pickaway County Amateur Tourney

Steve Helwagen won the second annual Pickaway County Amateur tournament over the weekend.

Helwagen carded a 75 at Pickaway Country Club and a 73 at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links for a 148 total. Low net honors were won by Dallas Elliott with a 129.

Helwagen edged Dean MacFadden by two strokes for the title. MacFadden finished second with a 150.

Other low gross golfers, in order of their finish, were Steve Brudzinski, Dan Hindy, Chuck Smith, Ron Leatherwood, Bill Heiskell, M. Estensen, Ray Bullock and Dick Wellington.

GREG Peck had the second low net score of 132. Ed Combs and Jim Riley tied for third, Gale Leatherwood was fifth, Gerald Allison sixth, Wilbur Neff and Jerry Pritchard tied for seventh, Mike Simons ninth and Jim Reeves and Speeder Davis tied for 10th.

Paul Francis eagled the number four hole and Dick Robbins eagled the number six hole at PCC Saturday. Both are par fours.

On Sunday, Steve Helwagen fired an eagle three on the par five first hole at Lansdowne.

Helwagen replaces last year's champion, Tim Dickinson, who is serving in the Armed Forces this year. Dallas Elliott was the 1968 net champion.

The tournament directors were John Vendilinski and Jack Hutchison.

Tiant Needs Victory; Tribe Loses Again

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Maybe 13 will be Luis Tiant's lucky number.

The Cuban right-hander, who was a 21-game winner for the Cleveland Indians last year, has an 8-18 record this year and has failed in 12 starts to get victory No. 9, compiling an eight-game losing streak in the process.

His latest failure was Sunday when the Indians beat the New York Yankees, 7-3, to gain an even break in the four-game series with the New Yorkers.

In the National Football League Raymond Berry, playing for the Baltimore Colts between 1955 and 1967, holds the pass catching mark of 631 receptions.

Reds Drubbed By Atlanta In Sunday Tilt

CINCINNATI (AP)—The wild National League West Division continued its mad scramble today and the Cincinnati Reds, although drubbed 8-3 by Atlanta Sunday, still remained 1½ games off the pace.

The Braves left Cincinnati after taking two of three in the series.

In Sunday's game, Reds manager Dave Bristol, still searching for a fourth starter, hoped to get at least six innings out of George Culver, who has been ailing since July 7 with hepatitis.

Jim Maloney, Gary Nolan and Jim Merritt have been the big guns but Bristol said the rotation needs four.

Culver never got past the first inning. The Braves got four runs on five hits, three unearned runs and an error before Culver was lifted for Clay Carroll.

The Braves, facing Carroll, picked up two more runs in the fourth and both were unearned.

Henry Aaron's 33rd home run of the season off Dennis Ribant brought in the final Atlanta run.

The Reds scored twice in the sixth when they knocked Ron Reed out of a single by Alex Johnson and an error by Orlando Cepeda on Lee May's single.

Pete Rose, who had two hits, scored in the third after being hit by a pitch.

In the first inning, Rose hit Reed in the pitching arm with a batted ball raising a painful welt that ultimately forced him from the game.

"It was sore all game," said Reed, who pitched 1-3 innings to pick up his 15th win against nine losses.

"He got me good. I just got the arm up or it might have hit me in the head," Reed said.

Penske Team, Dodge Boys Score Auto Racing Wins

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Unless there is a complete washout of his Camaros in the final two races, Philadelphia's Roger Penske will deliver to his backers a second Trans-American road racing title this season.

Ron Bucknum, a 30-year-old all-purpose driver from California, made it five in a row for Penske's sleek blue cars at Kent, Wash., Sunday when he won the ninth event in the 11-race series for small, sporty sedans.

Bucknum's first place finish gave Chevrolet a 76-62 point lead over Ford's Mustang in the series in which the top trophy goes to the manufacturer. Camaro now needs only a third place finish in either of the final two races to lock up its second title in a row.

Meantime, Dodge drivers scored three times during the weekend and wealthy A. J. Foyt put another $19,500 into his bank account when he won the world's richest dirt track race, the Hoosier Hundred, at Indianapolis Saturday.

Bobby Allison, a 32-year-old Catholic layman from Hueytown, Ala., started his red and gold Dodge Charger in last place in a 250-mile NASCAR Grand National race at Richmond, Va., and went on to win his fourth victory of the season Sunday.

Don White, Dodge's top Midwestern driver, beat Ford's Bobby Unser to the finish line by 58 seconds in a 250-mile United States Auto Club feature at Milwaukee after leading the final 70 laps.

Bobby Isaac started the Dodge parade when he won a 100-mile at Hickory, N.C., Friday night for his 13th NASCAR triumph of the year, all on short tracks.

Cards Stop San Francisco, 21-10

By SHEILA MORAN
Charley Johnson, who for the last two seasons needed a week-end pass to throw a forward pass, is throwing them fulltime now—and throwing them well.

Johnson, his Army obligations behind him, threw for two touchdowns and ran for another, in pacing the St. Louis Cardinals to a 21-10 exhibition football victory over the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

The 49ers took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter, but their passing attack was marred as quarterback Steve Spurrier ran into five interception. Spurrier went all the way while regular starter John Brodie nursed a sore back.

The victory increased the Cardinals' record to 3-2 and extended the 49ers' losing streak to five straight games.

The 49ers face the Los Angeles Rams, buoyant over their 50-20 victory over Buffalo, in a grudge game next weekend.

"We put it all together for the first time," Rams' Coach George Allen said after the Buffalo debacle Saturday. "We're ready to roll. This kind of win was good for the team's morale."

The Rams, who scored six touchdowns, also ruined O.J. Simpson's homecoming. In his first hometown appearance as a pro, the sensational running back from Southern Cal dropped a screen pass and stepped out of bounds on a kickoff return that trimmed an 85-yard touchdown run into a 41-yard pass play. O.J. gained 20 yards in seven carries.

Deacon Jones was the Rams' prime defensive spoiler.

In Dallas, meanwhile, 74,771 fans turned hostile when Joe Namath decided to rest an injured left knee and forego his Cotton Bowl debut, but they found another hero in Roger Staubach, the quarterback of the great Navy teams of the 1960s, who directed the Cowboys to a 25-9 triumph over the New York Jets.

Staubach came off the bench in the second period, after starter Craig Morton dislocated his right index finger. With four seconds remaining in the half, the 28-year-old rookie scrambled for a touchdown that gave the Cowboys a 10-9 lead they never lost and later engineered the Cowboys' two other touchdowns.

The Bengals were deep in Bronco territory after recovering a fumble and completing a 46-yard pass to Eric Cabbage. There were just seconds to play.

"All of a sudden there was a time out," Brown said. "Greg came running over and said he had called it."

"You know, he wanted to go in for another one. I said 'for goodness sakes, Greg.'"

"In a situation like that the only way is to let the clock run out. A two point win is as good as anything."

"Greg doesn't realize yet that in pro football a lot of things can happen in the short minutes at the end."

Recalling his expansion team's third straight exhibition win after dropping two, Brown said "I really have to hand it to our guys."

In other games Saturday, the Kansas City Chiefs wound up their exhibition season undefeated and untied in six games with a 14-10 decision over the stubborn Atlanta Falcons, 2-3; the Green Bay Packers, 3-2, upended the Pittsburgh Steelers, 1-3, 31-10; The Minnesota Vikings, 4-1, nipped the New York Giants, 0-4, 28-27; the Cleveland Browns, 3-1-1 scalped the Washington Redskins, 2-3, 20-10 and the Houston Oilers, 3-2, pounded the New Orleans Saints, 2-3, 30-14.

The Detroit Lions, 4-1, shaded the Philadelphia Eagles, 2-2, 23-21; the Cincinnati Bengals, 3-2, edged the Denver Broncos, 1-4, 13-11 and the Miami Dolphins, 1-5, blanked the Boston Patriots, 2-3, 13-0.

Soviets Drag Feet On Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials expect some sort of answer from the Soviet Union during the opening days of the UN General Assembly on starting the long-awaited American-Russian nuclear arms control talks.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers plans to fly to New York Sept. 16, the eve of the assembly opening, for meetings with other foreign ministers, including Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko.

Aides anticipate Rogers will have his first talk with Gromyko by Sept. 20—and they expect a "yes," "no" or "give us more time" response then on President Nixon's bid to begin the strategic arms parity.

The Kremlin's failure to reply so far to Nixon's notice of U.S. readiness to start the talks as of last July 31—given to Soviet Anaoly F. Dobrynin on June 11—has surprised and puzzled administration officials.

U.S. sources said new word has been received from Moscow that Dobrynin, who had been expected to return from home consultations last summer with the Soviet reply, has again been delayed by ill health. But the Americans suspect the delay has been due to more than the ambassador's recurring stomach ailment.

Delays have been displayed by both superpowers before and since former President Lyndon B. Johnson told the nation July 1, 1968, that he could "announce to the world a significant agreement."

Aligned against Goldwater in Senate decisions on foreign policy and civil rights, Dirksen backed him for the GOP presidential nomination, campaigned for him for the White House.

On the conservative side of his personal ledger, Dirksen battled—without success—for a constitutional amendment to overrule the Supreme Court's "one man-one vote" decision on apportionment of state legislatures.

Dirksen was born Jan. 4, 1896, son of a painter and decorator who gave him the middle name McKinley after Republican President William McKinley.

Dirksen worked his way through school, spent two years at the University of Minnesota and one year at law school before World War I Army service. He finished law school at night.

He had an assortment of jobs—making washing machines, sharing the ownership of a bakery, managing a dredging company—before he turned to politics.

His home was a rambling brick house on the Potomac River, near Leesburg, Va., about 30 miles from Washington. There he spent his spare time gardening. The black limousine assigned him as a Senate leader shuttled him to and from the Capitol.

"I always wanted to be an actor," Dirksen once said, and he was. The Senate was his theater.

Muney Court Docket Light

A Columbus man was bound over to grand jury by Judge Sterling Lamb in municipal court today.

Gary Hicks, 18, waived his rights to a preliminary hearing before the court on charges of malicious destruction of property, and two counts of breaking and entering. He was placed under $2,000 bond.

In other action, Michael R. Conner, 19, 201 Harrison St., was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation.

Allen E. Davies 28, American Hotel, forfeited $60 bond for reckless operation and $24 bond for making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle.

James M. Hart, 22, Route 2, forfeited $19 for speeding 70 in a 60 mile zone.

Intoxication and disturbing the peace were the charges brought against Herbert Carrol, 122 Hayward Ave. He forfeited $24.75 bond by failing to appear in court.

$273 was collected on other fines and forfeitures.

Probers . . .

As a condition for the original loan, the government had insisted Coastal Products give it, as collateral, liens on 2,800 acres of land the company owned in Florida. Yet before loan funds left Washington, the government released the liens.

Records disclosed that Coastal Products sold one 320-acre tract to its board chairman, Finley McMillan, who quickly resold the land for more than twice what he paid for it.

U.S. Atty. Clinton Ashmore raised the question of land transactions at a bankruptcy creditors hearing, but said later he is not pursuing the matter until instructed otherwise by Washington.

The bankruptcy referee in the Coastal Products case, Robert M. Ervin, also raised at a hearing the question of preferential treatment of the firm's creditors.

Modern Homes Construction Co. of Valdosta, Ga., whose officers held key posts in Coastal Products, was the only lender paid off before Coastal Products filed for bankruptcy, records showed. Its $81,500 loan was secured by a lien on wallboard produced by the Florida firm.

Ervin said the issue of preferential treatment has not been pursued by the government.

Village Worker To Paint, Roof Muny Building

South Bloomfield village council decided to have village worker Everett Costlow along with Russ Hoover paint trim and re-roof the municipal building.

The decision was reached when no bids were received for the project.

Council also decided to have drains and gutters cleaned in the village. Two desks in the council house will be sold to the village of Lockbourne.

The council purchased a new police handbook.

Maddox Pushes For Wallace

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox says the time is ripe for Southern conservatives to grab the leadership of the Democratic party and he thinks they should rally behind former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

"I am going to urge everywhere I go for George Wallace and others who feel like he does step in and take over," Maddox said.

Maddox declared the party "must be moved from the grasp of the Socialists and the far-left liberals."

The talks were about to get under way when Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20, 1968, and Washington decided on a postponement.

After taking office, Nixon continued the delay while his administration conducted its own review of potential implications of the talks.

Administration authorities have offered a range of speculation as to why the Kremlin is foot-dragging on its response.

—The Soviets too have been conducting a broad strategic arms review in shaping up their bargaining position for the talks.

—The Kremlin has become so preoccupied with its dispute with Red China that it is not ready or is unwilling to start the disarmament discussions with the United States now.

—The Russians marked time while they watched the outcome of the antiballistic missiles debate in Washington and to see what the United States does in testing multiple-headed nuclear missiles.

—The international situation generally, or some part of it such as Vietnam or the Middle East issue, has convinced Soviet leaders they should go slow on disarmament talks.

—The committee leadership in Moscow is divided and unable to undertake new foreign affairs initiatives.

President Nixon Ends Stay At Western White House

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon ends a month's vacation at the Western White House today and takes a roundabout, two-stop aerial route back to Washington.

On the way, Nixon scheduled a meeting with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico on the border to dedicate a two-nation dam.

Then Nixon wings on eastward for a look at Hurricane Camille's path of destruction across Louisiana and Mississippi.

Back in a capital saddened by the death Sunday of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen there will be an immediate gap in the President's schedule. The regular Tuesday morning meeting with Republican congressional leaders was canceled.

Nixon called Dirksen a "great American—a legislator of matchless skills, and my warm personal friend."

In his office at the Western White House compound Nixon huddled Sunday with his chief adviser on national security, Henry A. Kissinger. They were looking at all aspects of the three-day cease-fire North Vietnam ordered in commemoration of its dead president, Ho Chi Minh—a cease-fire South Vietnam rejected.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler declined to say what the ultimate American reaction might be. He said Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, was assessing the situation and would make recommendations to Nixon in the light of activities since the enemy announced a cease-fire starting today.

The Nixon-Diaz Ordaz meeting comes at Amistad—Spanish for "Friendship"—Dam spanning the Rio Grande about midway of the Texas border with Mexico.

The 254-foot high dam, concrete in the middle, earth at the ends, stretches for six miles. It will create a reservoir, about one-fifth full now, with a capacity equivalent of 5,586,000 acres of water one foot deep.

Mexico and the United States are splitting the $80 million cost according to the reservoir area in each country—about 44-56.

Amistad is designed to help tame floods which periodically have brought death and damage through the years along the Rio Grande and its tributaries.

By mid-September Nixon was to be back on Air Force One for his aerial survey of the sections of Louisiana and Mississippi that got the full blast of Camille.

A landing was planned at Gulfport on the Mississippi Coast for a conference aboard the plane with Gov. John Bell Williams, Sens. James O. Eastland and John C. Stennis, and Rep. William M. Colmer, all of Mississippi.
